FLIERS INSIST

Byrd Party Plans Test
Hops Which Likely Will Delay Start at Least 3 Days.

Mineola, N. Y., May 16.—(AP)—Brewing storms, both atmospheric and verbal, kept the trans-Atlantic planes in their hangars today.

Strong, equally winds swept the flying fields all day so that projected local test flights had to be abandoned.

Combination of wind and dissension prevented another longer flight that had been announced at noon for this afternoon.

During the morning the crews of all three planes which plan the Paris hop worked around the hangars and an air of peace settled over the camp with the report that dissension between flyers and backers of the Bellanca flight had been smoothed out at the satisfaction of all.

Commander Richard Byrd announced that his giant Fokker "America" would go up during the day with a 12,000 pound load, which is 2,000 pounds below the weight to be carried on the hop off. G. Bellanca, designer of the plane in which Clarence Chamberlin and Lloyd Bertaud will fly for France, stated that his monoplane probably would fly to Washington and back during the day to test instruments. He said that both fliers had agreed such a test was necessary.

The American test flight was called off because of unfavorable winds.

These winds no doubt would have prevented the flight of the Chamberlin-Bertaud Columbia, too, but it was stopped without consideration of the weather by the fliers themselves.

Tiff Not Over.

When told of Bellanca's announcement they said he had no intention of flying to Washington and that they had never agreed to such a flight. Their remarks were taken as an indication that the new financial agreement reached yesterday had not smoothed out all the differences between the various persons interested in the flight and that harmony was balanced on an exceedingly fine wire.

The theory was further strengthened when it was learned that a controversy was under way concerning equipment of the plane with a radio. Chamberlin and Bertaud have planned all along to carry radio, but today Charles Lindbergh, press reporter accompanying the flight, suggested doing without it. He was insistent in his contention that the 60 pounds saved by leaving the radio at home would add enough speed to outweigh what service the radio might prove to be.

Bertaud emphatically stated that he could not make the trip without radio and Chamberlin declined to make any statement, at least publicly, taking no part in the controversy.

While the Byrd party went ahead with their four flights which will postpone their hop-off at least three days and the Chamberlin-Bertaud camp was split by apparently growing dissension, Charles Lindbergh, the youthful air mail pilot from the midwest, went to New York to see

Jury Selected
In Hollywood
Killing Trial

State Seeks Conviction of Mrs. Tom Kerrick and Henry Isabell.

Los Angeles, May 16.—(AP)—A jury of nine women and three men was completed in record time here today for the trial of Mrs. Sarah Kerrick and four others for the slaying of Tom Kerrick, movie cowboy, during a Hollywood drinking party several weeks ago.

The state announced that dismissal of the murder charges against three of the defendants would be asked during the trial in an effort to convict Mrs. Kerrick and Henry Isabell, movie extra, who was present when Kerrick was killed.

Those against whom the state is willing to drop the charges so that they may be called as prosecution witnesses are Iris Burns, Anita Davis and Tom Hunt. All are movie extras.

Kerrick was shot by Mrs. Kerrick, the state charges, when she returned from a neighbor's on the night of the drinking party at the Kerrick home and found her husband with Miss Burns.

District attorney's officers said their case hinged almost solely on the testimony expected from Miss Burns, Hunt and Miss Davis, all of whom attended the drinking party.

After choosing an alternate juror in the afternoon, the jury was taken to the scene of the killing.

Empanelling of the jury occupied only one hour and 45 minutes, said by the court reporter to be record in a case attracting wide attention.

Each juror was asked by defense attorneys whether they cared less for a person who drinks than one who does not. All replied they thought as much of one as the other.

MRS. YOUNG ALLEN DIES IN CHINA

Widow of Noted Missionary Is Taken by Death in 68th Year of Foreign Service.

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(AP)—Bishop W. N. Atwood, presiding bishop of the Orient for the Methodist church, south, received a telegram today announcing the death in Shanghai Saturday of Mrs. Young J. Allen, one of the oldest missionaries on any field.

Mrs. Allen and her husband, the late Young J. Allen, who died 20 years ago, went to China in 1859.

As Miss Houston, of Newnan, Ga., Mrs. Allen had been graduated the year before from Wesleyan college.

Mr. Allen had been graduated the same year from Emory university.

After the death of her husband Mrs. Allen continued to serve in Shanghai and was in her 68th year of service.

It was Dr. Allen who translated most of the English books into Chinese.

He had the ear of the ruling and literary classes in China and was accorded the most distinguished position among the missionaries serving in China.

A street in Shanghai is named for him and he and Mrs. Allen wanted to go to China, sufficient funds were not on hand to enlarge the field and they privately raised money to pay their passage.

When they went to China it was on a little sailing vessel and the voyage required seven months.

Mrs. Allen survived by two daughters and one son, all of whom are living in China.

FEDERAL CHURCH
COUNCIL UPHOLDS
MEXICAN RIGHTS

Finds Americans Have Real Grievance But Not One That Justifies Forcible Intervention.

New York, May 16.—(AP)—The oil and land controversy between the United States and Mexico rests upon a real grievance on the part of American interests, but not one that justifies, under such sanctions of international law, any sort of forcible intervention in the internal affairs of that nation, states a report made public today by the department of research and education of the Federal Council of Churches.

The report is the result of several months investigation by the department of research and education and is introduced as a "strictly informational document," which claims any intention to suggest what course either government should follow.

The petroleum law of 1925, says the report, is found to have satisfactory features and to be at variance with the understandings arrived at in 1923 as a prelude to the recognition of the Mexican government by the United States. The report points out that the Mexican government's insistence that it has been done to American property rights arises out of sovereign acts of the Mexican republic in the adoption of her constitution and the enactment of domestic legislation, and that in the present state of international relations each nation, including the United States, demands that the judge of its own national laws, always subject to the limitation that if the operation of these laws results in violation of right under international law the victim of any resulting injustice may demand, through his government, redress in forms prescribed by international law."

Features of Report.

The department investigated the oil and land situation in all its phases and presents what it considers to be the major points of the controversy.

Each juror was asked by defense attorneys whether they cared less for a person who drinks than one who does not. All replied they thought as much of one as the other.

KING BEN TRIAL GETS UNDER WAY

Defense Attorney
Charges Former Members Seek To Break Up Colony.

St. Joseph, Mich., May 16.—(AP)—The state's suit to break up the House of David colony and wrest from Benjamin Purnell, its temporal leader, millions of dollars of property he is alleged to have fraudulently accumulated, opened the Berrien circuit court this afternoon with sharp interchanges between counsel.

H. T. Dewhurst, defense attorney, charged ex-members of the colony are seeking to break it down and blackmail its officers and are attempting to "use the attorney general of the state to consummate their selfish purpose."

"The accusers in this case are former members, disgruntled by their failure to carry out their own selfish purposes. They are seeking to do the basest thing, against us, to accomplish their nefarious purpose. No character guilty of such base atrocities could retain the loyalty of the hundreds who remain loyal to Benjamin," Dewhurst asserted.

George E. Nix, chief counsel for the state, responded to the allegation that the House of David colony, if the state's information is correct, "is a cancer in society, that the courts should and can remove."

"We are not attempting to dictate to the members of the colony what they shall do. They are free to leave their hair long and believe in everlasting life if they want to. But if Purnell and his officers have set up the colony as a religious association merely to throw the protecting cloak of religion around illegal activities, then the accusation is violating the state's regulations of associations."

"The state is not attempting to persecute Purnell or any one else."

A long legal argument as to the state's right to charge the colony with being a public nuisance entangled the attorneys.

Judge Paul took the defense petition under advisement. He will make a decision Tuesday.

Playwright's Shooting
:: ONE MAN DEAD, FRIEND HELD, WOMAN SOUGHT ::
Shrouded in Mystery

BY CEDRIC FOSTER.

Willimantic, Conn., May 16.—(United News)—Wilfred Irwin, newspaperman and playwright, died in a hospital late Monday night of gunshot wounds received during an alleged brawl at Hickory Hill, the country home of Leonard Cline, New York novelist and dramatist.

State police said Cline probably would be charged with second-degree murder, although Irwin died refusing to blame his host for the shooting.

At the time of Irwin's death, Cline lay on a near-by hospital cot, exhausted by the loss of blood which he had given for transfusion in an attempt to save his friend's life.

Coroner A. G. Bill, who had taken the body of the Cline estate even before Irwin's death, announced that on Tuesday he would hold an inquest which would include all the mysterious events which have transpired at the secluded country house during the last fortnight.

When the state police arrived at the Cline home Monday it was their second visit to Hickory Hill lodge within the week.

The first time neighbors had telephoned Willimantic authorities that a murder had been committed. The Willimantic authorities said it was out of their jurisdiction, but notified state troopers who entered Hickory Hill to find the novelist Cline so badly battered that they hauled the playwright Irwin off to jail.

To their surprise, Cline appeared at the jail next morning, the very picture of health and high spirits, marched out arm in arm.

Again informed that a murder had been committed at Hickory Hill Monday, the troopers were appropriately skeptical.

Cline signed a statement saying nothing except that he had committed no crime and that the shooting was accidental.

Cline gave a pint and a half of his blood in the transfusion. Irwin was said to have rallied slightly, but his physician, Dr. Edwin J. Othenheimer, announced that he had no chance.

"There must be 500 pieces of shot in his body," said the doctor.

The weapon was a sawed-off rifle, apparently heavily charged. The misses, entering the back part of one side, tore a large hole. The weapon was discharged from a horizontal position.

Cline immediately after his arrest retained William A. King, former attorney general of Connecticut, as his lawyer. Despite his weakened condition because of the blood transfusion a lawyer has been stationed at Cline's bedside.

Cline has been a familiar figure to the townspersons for some time, fond of lounging at the general store and exchanging pleasantries. He and Irwin a few days ago visited the Mansfield town library and requested the available books about the history of the village. The novelist also confided to several residents that he was going to use them under fictitious names in a story he was writing.

State police are investigating reports of a feminine visitor at Cline's home, identified by part of the villagers as "Mrs. Cline" and by others as "Mrs. Irwin."

They feel sure, however, that at 5 a.m. Monday when the gun was discharged only the two writers were in the lodge, apparently sitting upon the remains of a long drinking bout.

CLARENCE SAUNDERS STORES FOR ATLANTA

The Clarence Saunders corporation will establish several novel and progressive self-service groceries in Atlanta, the first of which will be opened at 796-798 Peachtree street near the intersection of Tenth by June 1, according to announcement Monday by J. R. Humpries, owner of the franchise for this territory.

Mr. Humpries, who will remove to Atlanta with his family to make his home here, has consummated a lease on the Peachtree location. C. D. Cabiness, of the Haas-Howell organization handled the transaction. Other Saunders units will be opened as rapidly as conditions warrant.

Atlanta was selected as the location for the first store in Georgia after careful investigation, Mr. Humpries said.

"I expect to do a $5,000 a week business shortly after we begin operation."

The Saunders stores now number 33, all of them being in the middle west and south, with a few in the east, though the corporation is still functioning only a few months. Clarence Saunders, known as the originator of the self-service grocery system, is head of the corporation.

The Saunders stores here will enter into the self-service plan. Mr. Humpries said recently there will be no franchisees, patrons having free access to the entire stock and the management relying on their honesty to make proper settlement for their purchases at the cashier's desk at the entrance.

OFFICE OF
MANAGING DIRECTOR

The other day, a New York visitor phoned me personally for a reservation. Thirty minutes later, as my guest, he was comfortably settled in a big, well-equipped, cheerful room.

I mention this as an example of how prompt and thoroughly McAlpin service is. And it further indicates the unusual convenience of the McAlpin - Pennsylvania station is one block away, it's eight minutes walk to Grand Central Station while B. and O. Motor Coaches stop at the door.

When I promise every guest the utmost in comfort and convenience - the finest cuisine - and the most efficient hotel service in New York - I am duty-bound to fulfill the promise to the last letter.

Won't you give me the opportunity of serving you?

Mark Sullivan, nationally-known expert on politics and regular contributor to The Constitution, will be furnished with a copy of Noah Webster's "blue-back" speller by an Atlanta woman as the result of an article appearing on Sunday's editorial page in The Constitution, in which he devotes half a column to the famous old text book.

Mrs. Harry Smith, of 484 Ashby street, S. W., brought an 1880 edition of the speller to the office of The Constitution Monday and requested it be sent to Mr. Sullivan. It is a facsimile of the edition she used in the grammar school at Peacock Lake.

Representatives of Atlanta agents, the underwriters' organization in six states, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, fire insurance executives and brokers from Philadelphia, New York and Hartford will attend the ceremonies.

Members of the organization will enjoy a barbecue at noon and will have an entertainment at night at White Sulphur Springs, near the hotel. In the evening, the hotel at White Sulphur Springs having been engaged for the occasion.

TRIAL OF ALLEGED DEATH-CAR DRIVER MAY BE POSTPONED

Lee Kinney, alleged driver of the automobile which struck down and killed Thomas E. Tully on November 15, at the intersection of Pine and Peachtree streets, is slated to go on trial for his life this morning before Judge Virgil B. Moore, in Fulton superior court.

The trial in all probability will be adjourned, according to attaches in the office of Solicitor General John A. Bokvin, on account of the illness of William Schley Howard, attorney for the defendant.

Calf Club Members
In Butts County
Are Offered Prizes

Jackson, Ga., May 16.—(Special)

An important meeting of the Butts County Jersey Cattle club that brought together a large number of the breeders of the county and the members of the Calf club, as well as a number of officials of the Georgia Jersey Cattle club, was held Saturday afternoon with A. G. Peacock, president of the pioneer Jersey cattle breeders of this section.

There was an attendance of approximately 100 persons, and prominent visitors included Ward C. Snarr, southeastern representative of the American Jersey Cattle club; Frank W. Fitch, of the State College of Agriculture; William C. Pherson of Athens; W. L. Jackson, of the Georgia Agricultural Experiment Station; G. Norman, prominent Jersey breeder of Griffin; Professor L. D. Watson, president of Gordon Institute, Barnesville; L. W. Traer, editor of the Southeastern Farmer, of Griffin, and others.

Norman offered as a prize to the Calf club member writing the best paper on "Why I Should Own a Registered Jersey Bull," a purchased bull of that breed, and Professor Watson offered a registered bull for the Calf club member having the best pasture.

The county association will offer a special prize to the club member having the best fitted animal on exhibit at the county fair this fall.

Practically all of the 32 members of the Butts County Calf club have registered calves and splendid progress is predicted for the live stock and dairy industry in the county.

Zero hours during the present week will be the most dangerous of the campaign. More accidents occur on

YOUNG AFFORD A STEINWAY PIANO

Aspiration—

IT is humanly natural to aspire to those things which lend grace and beauty to life, and in furnishing the home this search for grace and beauty leads inevitably, among all pianos, to the Steinway.

For the Steinway is a piano of such beauty musically, encased in cabinetwork of such faultless charm, that musicians and home-makers for three generations have hailed it matchless.

Such grace and beauty of performance and of design make the Steinway, necessarily, a piano not of low price.

Yet it has ever been the Steinway's effort to remain within the reach of the true music-lover and home-maker.

Many a home possesses its Steinway today because its home-makers visited Phillips & Crew Piano Co. to investigate the purchase conditions actually surrounding this piano of their dreams.

Those home-makers found, as you will find, that the purchase terms were spread over such a broad period that possession could become not merely a dream but a joyous and immediate reality.

Your Steinway is waiting for you, if you genuinely aspire to it. Nor need it wait longer. It is yours now, to possess and to enjoy.

Your present piano, if you have one, will be acceptable in partial payment on a liberal valuation.

NATIONAL BISCUIT CHIEFS HERE TODAY

NORTH CAROLINA PAYS TREASURER "DEBT OF HONOR"

Raleigh, N. C., May 16.—(AP)—The state of North Carolina today discharged its "debt of honor" to W. H. Worth, state treasurer under Governor Russell.

A check of $12,060.04 reimbursing him for money stolen by a dishonest employee of the treasurer's office years ago went through its final official check in the office of the state auditor.

Mr. Worth had made good the money out of his own pocket after it had been stolen from the state.

The recent general assembly authorized the council of state to reimburse Mr. Worth within its discretion. The bill allowing the reimbursement was passed because the legislature had approved the dishonest employee's accounts several years before his defalcations were discovered.

Atlanta will be host today to a party of distinguished New York financiers and officials of the National Biscuit company, the visiting guests of Atlanta's oldest Masons, the Industrial bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and Brooks Morgan, manager of the Frank E. Block company, local branch of the National Biscuit company.

The New Yorkers, headed by R. E. Tomlinson, president, and H. H. Tomlinson and A. G. Boller, vice presidents of the National Biscuit company, will arrive this afternoon at 3:35 o'clock and will immediately inspect the Black plant. Later they will visit the home of Robert F. Madox and at 7:30 o'clock will be honored guests at a banquet at the Capital City club.

At 8:30 the gathering of a number of leaders in business and civic affairs of Atlanta will meet the visitors. Jackson Reynolds, president of the First National bank of New York, who is one of the party, will be a speaker, and President Tomlinson and Vice Presidents and other National Biscuit officials will take talks. Governor Walker will deliver the address of welcome and local business leaders will make brief addresses.

The party will leave Atlanta Wednesday morning for New York. The National Biscuit company recently acquired the Frank E. Block company interests here.

IRA M. SWARTZ DIES AT HOME IN SEATTLE

Ira M. Swartz, $5, one of the constructors of Fort McPherson, and one of Atlanta's oldest Masons, died Sunday at his residence in Seattle, Wash., according to news received here by friends.

Mr. Swartz came to this city to direct construction of Fort McPherson, and for a number of years since has been active in fraternal and civic activities.

Mr. Swartz was one of the first members of the Yaarab Shrine temple. He also was one of the founders of the Luckie Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons. He also was at one time department commander of the O. M. Muller post of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Mr. Swartz is survived by one son, Joseph G. Swartz.

WIDOW GETS ESTATE OF LEE M. JORDAN

The will of the late Lee M. Jordan, president of the Gate City Cotton mills, was filed Monday for probate in the office of Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, Fulton county ordinary. With the exception of three special bequests amounting to $10,500, the entire estate was bequeathed to his widow, Mrs. Frances Carter Jordan.

Miss Harriet Carter Jordan, a daughter, was bequeathed 25 shares of Atlanta and Lowry National bank stock, to be held in trust for her until she reaches the age of 21, and then to be turned over to her in fee simple. The stock is valued at $8,500.

Some of $1,000 each were left to his sisters, Mrs. Ella J. Penick and Miss Julia R. Jordan, of Nicholasville, Ky. Mrs. Jordan was made sole executor of the will without bond. She is given the authority to dispose of any part or all of the estate without a court order. The will was drawn on June 11, 1924.

[This Year Compared With Same Period Last Year]

THE demand from car owners for Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires has given Firestone Dealers a large increase in volume that enables them to sell these tires to you at the lowest prices in the history of the industry.

On the cars of motorists everywhere, in the every-day service of the largest truck and bus operators, these wonderful tires are delivering unheard-of long mileage together with greater safety and comfort.

The Firestone Balloon Tread, scientifically designed three years ago, and unchanged today, follows the contour of the tire carcass with no excess rubber at the edges to cause "shoulder breaks." Narrow rider strips permit the tread to yield to depressions and cling to the road, preventing skidding. This tough, pliable tread has the wear-resisting qualities that give thousands of extra miles.

The tread, however, is not the only important part of the balloon tire. This tread must be placed on a carcass that has the qualifications to withstand the terrific flexing that this design permits. The Firestone carcass is made of cords dipped in a rubber solution which not only saturates and insulates every fiber of every cord, but unifies sidewalls with carcass, eliminating any possibility of separation under the extreme flexing of low-pressure tires.

Many Firestone Dealers are prepared to take your old tires, offering you a liberal allowance on a new set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires to start the motoring season.

To meet a demand for a low price tire and tube, Firestone designed and manufactures Oldfield Tires and Tubes for Firestone Dealers only. They can furnish you with these tires at the low prices quoted, carrying the Standard Manufacturers' Guarantee.

Higher Prices for Cotton Seen by Reserve Bank Head

Higher prices for cotton this season as an outgrowth of production curtailment and other factors were predicted Monday by M. B. Wellborn, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta, after his return from the spring conference of the governors of 12 federal reserve banks with the federal board in Washington.

In addition to forced curtailment of cotton production by Mississippi valley floods, and the movement to decrease planting of large cotton crops, increased American consumption and exportation of cotton are factors expected to result in higher prices this season, Mr. Wellborn stated. The output of the Mississippi valley area now inundated with waters averaged about 2,000,000 bales, he asserted, adding that while some land flooded, especially in the area on higher up plantations, possibly will be planted, it is doubtful if other sections will be planted, or replanted, because the flood has disorganized farmers and destroyed seed, machinery and much live stock.

General Condition Good

Good business conditions throughout the country without a flaw in the long range, to check the general prosperity was the consensus of opinion at the conference, Governor Wellborn stated. That is another factor that will help the upward trend of cotton prices this year, he said.

"There is no cloud on the business horizon of America," Governor Wellborn declared, when questioned as to the general underlying conditions of business as indicated.

He emphasized that the only troublous feature of the United States is the flood of the Mississippi valley, and that while the result of the flood likely will curtail the production of cotton considerably, absolutely no apprehension is felt as regards New Orleans.

Governor Wellborn said that indications are strongly for higher prices for cotton this season, as the result of materially increased exportation of the south's great product, together with a marked increase in American consumption and production and marked curtailment of production.

Flood Losses Heavy

The area of cotton land flooded in the Mississippi valley territory usually turned out 2,000,000 bales of cotton, he said.

"While some land flooded, especially in the area on higher up plantations, possibly will be planted, it is doubtful if other sections will be planted, or replanted, because the flood has disorganized farmers, as well as destroying thousands of tons of seed, machinery, live stock, and even the machinery itself. Many more areas are in indication of a considerable area being curtailed in the valley and Arkansas."

Indications are that exports of cotton this year will exceed any previous year in history, having already passed 10,000,000 bales, and the previous highest record was only slightly over 11,000,000 bales in pre-war days.

Europe is getting back on better basis, with a greater consumption power. The lower price of cotton also has bolstered consumption of cotton here and abroad.

Governor Wellborn commenting on Georgia's as well as the entire southeast—industrial progress, said that textile conditions in this state was excellent, with many mills operating day and night schedules.

5 HIGHWAY BODIES OPEN CONFERENCE

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 16.—(P)—Predictions of a greater advance in highway construction in the south than in any previous year were heard on every side this afternoon, as representatives of five huge highway associations discussed plans and projects of national and international proportions members of the Dixie Highway, Lee Highway, Cincinnati-Lookout Mountain Airplane Highway, Chattanooga-Gadsden-Birmingham-Lookout Mountain Scenic Highway and the Henry Grade Highway associations are meeting here in a two-day session.

Following the afternoon session, the visitors were taken on the newly completed concrete highway to the top of Lookout mountain. Late this afternoon Neil Bass, state highway commissioner, arrived from Nashville by motor, who joined the highway enthusiasts at the hotel dinner with them at the Hotel Parthenon at 6:30 o'clock.

Speaking of progress contemplated in highway building in the south, Henry Roberts, of Bristol, president of the Lee highway, said:

"While wonderful progress has been made in highway development and construction during the past ten years,

I feel that too many folks think we are nearing our goal, when in fact we are just beginning the work of road development, particularly in the south.

"I am glad to note the Tennessee highway department is progressive and is leading up with public opinion in highway development." He believes, however, the next ten or fifteen years will see greater development in highway than has been experienced during the past ten years."

FURNITURE DEALERS MEET TODAY IN MACON

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(P)—The Georgia Retail Furniture Dealers' association will begin its annual session here tomorrow morning, the meeting to continue through Wednesday. Charles N. Peavy, Macon, is state-president, and will preside. Several hundred delegates will attend.

Seaboard Given Everglades Lines Says Miami News

Miami, Fla., May 16.—The Miami Daily News, published by James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and democratic candidate for president in 1920, in its issue today claimed to have information showing that the Seaboard Air Line railroad has been granted perpetual franchises along the banks of virtually every principal drainage canal in the everglades.

Governor John W. Martin, of Florida, is said by the paper to have recommended the franchise to President S. Davies Warfield, of the Seaboard, for a consideration of $10.

The new franchise agreement is described by the paper as one that will enable the railroad to reach all parts of the everglades as acreage thrown open to cultivation, and the need develops, without the necessity of paying franchise owners for the various rights-of-way.

The paper further points out that it will, through the franchises, be able to outstrip all competitors, including the powerful Florida East Coast system, and render it impossible, or at least difficult, for any other common carrier to attempt to enter and serve the same territory.

Sentence Commuted Allows Deportation Of British Subject

The three-year sentence of Leonard King, of Barbados Island, in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for smuggling aliens into the United States was, yesterday, to the time already served, two years, to be a commutation order from the president, in order that King may be deported, it was announced Monday by M. A. Cokendall, immigration officer.

Mr. Cokendall said that the government of Barbados Island advised the United States government that King has a wife and eight children destitute at their home. King, who is a British subject, will be deported around July 1 to Barbados.

NOTED CHIROPRACTOR ARRIVES HERE TODAY

Dr. B. J. Palmer, known as "Father of Chiropractic," president of the Palmer School of Chiropractic at Davenport, Iowa, will arrive in the city this morning. He will meet a representative group of chiropractors in the afternoon and after making an address over radio, will leave tonight for Massachusetts.

NEW CHARTER BRANDED 'SORT OF DICTATORSHIP'

Declaring that the proposed city manager charter for Atlanta places all departments of the city government, with the single exception of the school system, under a sort of dictatorship, the anti-charter group Monday issued a statement in which it was set out that only the school department was left without the benefits of the promised city manager. The statement follows:

"The city manager charter is nothing more than the placing of all other municipal departments under a sort of dictatorship, while the new school board of nine members from anywhere, will be allowed to do as they please, free of any restraint, either as to expenses or the sale of school property."

"Once again we say if the city manager will be such a blessing and salvation to the other departments of our city, why was the school department left free of his beneficent influence—the only department of our city according to recent reports, which seems so much need of the wonderful results so loudly promised for the other departments?"

"Once again we ask, if the city manager system is going to result in so much economy and efficiency, why

COUNCIL WILL PUSH EXTENSION OF BROAD

City council Monday afternoon voted with the request of Alderman Charles M. Ford, of the tenth ward, authorizing appointment of a committee of seven from that body to expedite extension of Broad street from its present terminus to the intersection of Forsyth and Whitehall streets.

Alderman Ford was named chairman of the committee and Aldermen Howa D. C. McIutcheon, Wylie Moore, H. T. Loeb, T. Frank Callaway and J. T. Ozburn.

This committee will seek means by which the street may be extended in the near future, thus opening up another avenue for movement of traffic in the downtown section. It also will enhance property values in the affected section and in case assessments about 50 per cent, according to advocates of the improvement plan.

HUNDREDS CLINGING TO TREES IN FLOOD

After some 300 miles away, it widthed from 25 to 100 miles, and portions of 15 parishes were under water.

The first report of a loss of life in Louisiana came today with tidings of the drowning of a widow and eight children at Plaucheville after they had fled from the invading waters to the attic of their home. All lines of communication were down, however, and efforts to learn details of the fatalities were unavailing.

Peril Growing.

The crest of the flood still was miles up the Teche basin, but the bounding torrents had torn away a twenty mile stretch of levees along Bayou des Glaises and engineers feared that the entire 50 miles of protecting embankments would be swept away by the waters sweeping into the Atchafalaya.

At Woodside, the Atchafalaya, where the river was threatening to burst through the ramparts, the New Orleans weather bureau said that the water already was higher than was experienced during the floods of 1912 and 1922, and the crest still was more than a mile upstream away.

A special flood bulletin issued this afternoon said that the Bayou des Glaises waters would travel rapidly until they reached the neighborhood of Krotz Springs and Port Barre, some twenty miles from the point where the Atchafalaya joined the Red River, it said, they will spread east as well as west of the Atchafalaya and the progress will be slower.

Baits Speed Work.

The bulletin urged that every precaution be taken in lower Avoyelles, St. Landry, St. Martin, eastern Iberville, western Iberville, western Assumption, southern St. Mary and eastern Terrebonne parishes.

In other sections of the state the receding waters found farmers returning to their muddy fields and speeding the work of preparing and planting them. Along the Red river bottoms, flooded last week by that stream, fields were being plowed and planted.

A formal address of welcome to the crew of the Fokker plane now is complete, with Commander Bird, navigator; Acosta, pilot, and Lieutenant George Noville, radio expert and engineer.

Acosta takes the place of Floyd Bennett, Bird's pilot in his polar flight, who was injured when the America turned over at Teterboro airport, New Jersey, April 16.

Acosta gave way to Chamberlin in the Bellanca transatlantic crew because of his greater weight when one of them was obliged to drop out to make way for a navigator.

matter what may be the decision of the Mexican supreme court. But international law is the same for all nations. Mexico law may be treated as invalid under a rule of international law and inapplicable to American-owned property, an act of congress or a state legislature may also be called into question if a foreign government believes it to be contrary to a precept of international law.

While there is no organ of international law which can control the legislative, executive and judiciary of an independent state and declare their acts invalid, the operation of such acts may give rise to a claim for damages. The oil companies contend that in their case damages will constitute adequate redress. They insist that they are the proprietors, not an award of damages which an international arbitration tribunal may grant but actual payment of which would be problematical.

Land Controversy

With reference to the land controversy, the report says:

"Prior to the controversy over the petroleum laws, which has recently overshadowed everything else, the land distribution program was the occasion for considerable discussion between the part of foreign investors and for controversy between the governments of Mexico and the United States. Complaints made against the government of Mexico are as follows: that the amount offered (the assessed valuation plus 10 per cent) is too low; that there has been undue delay in making payment; that in some instances Indian villages have illegally taken possession of lands and that nothing has been done by the government officials to give redress to the owners of the lands; that many estates have been divided under state laws, without compensation; that valid concessions have been granted to individuals; that many mineral rights have not been paid on state bonds; that bonds are unacceptable for payment because they would depreciate in value and because a new revolution might make them worthless."

"From observations made in connection with the present study, it appears that there is substantial ground for some of these complaints."

After reviewing at length Spanish and Mexican legal tradition as to ownership of subsoil wealth, the report points out that the mining laws under which the oil companies' titles were taken, particularly the law of 1909, pertain to the subsoil petroleum to the owner of the surface.

However the Mexican supreme court, in the famous amparo cases, "decided in effect, that the mining law of 1909, had offered to the owners of the surface the right to exploit oil lying beneath their lands but that unless acceptance of the offer was evidenced by some positive act of acceptance, the offer could be withdrawn, and was withdrawn by the constitution of 1917. From the American point of view the 'positive act' doctrine was a mere device that was being imported into the controversy. On its face the law of 1909 appears to be subject to no such involved interpretation as the supreme court had down."

shown a steady decline, including as signs of a sound financial basis on which the country now rests.

Transportation Praised.

Praising the railroads and railroad management for recent forward steps in transportation, Mr. Taylor said that there has been the biggest reformation in transportation facilities in the past five years than ever before, and that a million cars are being used each week on the railroads.

There is danger from growth of production outstripping consumption capacity, he said. Other high lights of his speech included the statement that nothing is wrong with installment selling other than that it is dangerous when salaried men buy beyond their credit strength, and that no man should be sold more than he can pay for in 12 months. He warned against speculative real estate and over-building, stating that a wild boom in real estate values always precedes a panic.

Julian P. Alexander, general counsel of the Mississippi Bankers' Association, of Jackson, Miss., was the other speaker of the evening. Governor Clifford Walker and Governor-elect L. G. Hardman were guests at the banquet. Robert F. Maddox, Sr., chairman of the board of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank, was chairman of the reception committee in charge of the arrangements.

Robert S. Stiglman, vice president and chairman of the executive council, and also vice president of the Fourth National bank, acted as master of ceremonies.

Winn Scathingly Denounces New Charter at Capitol View

Scathingly sarcastic and branding the campaign waged by advocates of the proposed new charter as one of "a few misguided and uninformed citizens," Courtland S. Winn, former mayor and assistant city attorney, Monday attacked the proposed instrument under which the city would be governed if the majority of Atlantans voted for it May 23.

The address was made at a meeting of the Capitol View Civic league, over which John C. Mackey, president, presided. The league passed unanimously a resolution assuring the present system of city government as opposed to the new charter.

In addition to the attack made by Mr. Winn before the civic league, the new scheme of government also was tired out and defended at three other points of vantage throughout the city.

James E. Morris, mayor of Marietta, and E. Marvin Underwood, author of the proposed new charter, locked horns in a debate at the Boulevard Park Civic league; Horace Russell, leader of charter advocates, and Judge Ernest K. Kontz, head of the anti-charter group, argued at the Women's Club meeting of the Women's End Business club, and these same speakers sought to convince members of the woman's division of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce of the soundness of their respective arguments earlier in the night.

"The present form of government is democratic," Mr. Winn said. "Now you elect your representatives and public servants. Under the proposed charter you would not elect them, they would dictate with regal authority the policies of your government. City managers are the managers of your money and everything else with the single exception of the operation of the school department."

"This new autocratic, centralized, almost dictatorial government which charter advocates ask you to support has exempted only one department, the school department, would dictate the financial affairs of the city government under the new charter, and Mr. Underwood countered by denying it.

Frank Neely, chairman of the Atlanta bond commission, supervising expenditure of the $80,000,000 bond issue, explained how the commission is planning to protect the city in expenditure of this money at the capital View meeting. He went into intricate detail of how members of the commission had familiarized them- selves with details of construction in order to obviate the possibility of mis- takes and errors.

Nelson Spratt, another member of the commission, explained that Stewart Avenue school, the name of which has been changed to the Capitol View school, will be one of the first projects to begin under school bond funds derived from the proposed new charter.

C. D. Knight, president of the Atlanta Improvement Association, a powerful civic organization, which assisted materially in putting over the bill.

Mr. Morris, of Marietta, told the audience that the proposed extension of Broad street from its present terminus to the junction of Forsyth and Whitehall streets.

Rod D. Warren, school commissioner from the tenth ward, spoke against the new charter.

Willard A. Sutton, a representative of Atlanta, assisted in concocting the proposed new charter.

Captain Alan R. Templeton, late of the Queen's Own Cameron Scotch Highlanders, entertained with his bagpipe.

Walter Stewart, Fulton county com- missioner, declared he would assist in obtaining the proposed Broad street project as soon as a definite plan is submitted for consideration by Fulton county commissioners.

WEEK-END ACCIDENTS CLAIM THIRD VICTIM

With the death of Will Bishop, 60, of Route No. 9, Simsboro, Monday morning at Grady hospital, as the result of injuries received Saturday night by a "hit-and-run" motorist, the Simsboro street car stop, the third fatality was marked in the series weekend traffic accidents which injured 20 persons.

Treatment was administered other victims of traffic mishaps and many of them recovered in time to come home Monday. With the exception of Mr. Bishop, W. T. Randall, 68, of 591 Highland avenue, who died a few minutes after being struck by an automobile Saturday night, and a negro girl, Annie Mae Keith, killed instantly Saturday, victims of the week-end accident suffered principally from minor injuries, hospital records show.

Funeral services for Mr. Bishop will be held at Philadelphia Baptist church at Burlington Ga., this afternoon. The Rev. J. L. Wyatt will officiate, and interment will be in the Cawood cemetery.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, H. L. Bishop, of Jasper, Ill., and E. Bishop, of Atlanta; four daughters, Mrs. Dixie Reed, Miss Anna Bishop, Miss Lena Bishop, Miss Bea Bishop and Miss Bonnie Bishop; all of Simsboro; and three brothers, H. M. Bishop and N. C. SHAW, ATTACKED
BY KNIFE WIELDER,
SHOOTS ASSAILANT

Arrest of Buck Reed, negro, nearly proved disastrous for Detective Lieutenant T. D. Shaw Sunday night in breaking up a riot in a house occupied by a white family.

Reed, a drunkard, had been threatening a white man and attempted to stab the officer. Mr. Shaw's quick work with a gun resulted in the negro being shot in the right thigh.

Reports at Grady hospital Monday were that the negro was recovering from the effects of the shooting.

Police said that Lieutenant Shaw, together with Detectives Stone, Whitley and Brown, raided the house on report of a riot and that when Lieutenant Shaw attempted to pull Reed back from a window the negro turned on him with a long dirk.

LOAN ART EXHIBITION DRAWS BIG THRONGS

Splendid crowds attended the loan exhibition of Atlanta-owned paintings and sculpture being shown this week at the High Museum of Art on Peachtree at Fifteenth, Monday opening day, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Hours during which the museum is open to the public, there was a steady stream of visitors.

It was erroneously announced that the museum would be open in the evenings for the benefit of officials of the art association pointed out Monday that this was not possible at this time.

Therefore, all who wish to see the collection are urged to get there during day hours. The showing will continue through next Sunday.

There are over 100 paintings and a score or more of pieces of sculpture included in this exhibition, all owned by Atlantans. Some of the greatest painters of the present day, as well as masters of past centuries, are included in the list of artists whose work is represented in the collection and it is a rare opportunity to see so much beautiful and valuable art as is a permanent part of Atlanta homes.

The official committee of hostesses for today is composed of Miss Mae Haverty, chairman; Mrs. Stuart Witham, Mrs. Jesse Draper, Mrs. Clarence Haverty, Mrs. John Black, Mrs. Anna Weaver, Mrs. Ed Jamison, Mrs. Flyd McRae, Jr., Mrs. Albert Thornton, Jr., Mrs. John Morris, Jr., and Mrs. Hughes Spalding.

The graduating class includes Richard Adams, Robert Brannan, Fred Bull, J. C. Cook, Jr., Vincent Connerat, Beverly Daniel, James Dobson, William Dunning, Leek Fain, Olin Ferguson, Alfred Floyd, Robert Gould, Thomas Gwin, John Heaton, Herbert Kelley, Thomas Chotis, Julius Murray, Julian Norris, Gadsden Russell, Ben Simpson, Rupert Speakes, Olin Weaver, Morgan Sutton, John Whelchel, Albert White.

GASOLINE!

Pan-Am Gasoline is clean gasoline—carefully processed and purified to make it so. This clean fuel means added miles to the gallon. Get it at the familiar cream-colored Pan-Am pumps.

If you could look inside your motor while it is running at full speed you would understand why an oil must be tough to do its job properly. For it must withstand scorching engine heat—rapid-fire hammering of moving metal parts. It must have the strength, endurance and stamina to hold up mile after mile—hour after hour.

The improved Pan-Am Oil has toughness built into it. It resists engine heat better because it already resisted intense heat in the manufacturing process. It is made of paraffin base crude—specifically to meet the demands of modern motors.

Stop at a Pan-Am dealer and say "Pan-Am Oil." You'll notice the difference—and so will your motor.

AMERICA'S OBLIGATION.

Henry L. Stimson, the personal representative of the president in the Nicaraguan peace negotiations, is to be commended for the firm but diplomatic and cooperative spirit that has brought amity between the warring forces in the little republic.

In reflecting the attitude of the administration in maintaining good order and economic independence in the weaker nations of the western hemisphere, Mr. Stimson has not only marked out a progressive path for all the Nicaraguan people to travel, but in assuring them that a fair and impartial election early in 1928, at which time the term of President Diaz expires, he has appealed to the real patriots' manhood, and has established a higher esteem for the ideals of a genuine democracy.

In granting amnesty to war prisoners, in bringing about fellowship between the conservative and liberal leaders and masses, and in eliminating the misunderstandings between the two elements, it appears that a veritable national love feast will in time follow the revolution.

That two United States marines should have lost their lives Sunday night in a skirmish with a small band of hot-headed liberals, who had not been disarmed, is to be deeply regretted. The liberal leaders who had agreed to the peace terms will make every possible amend, and the government will apprehend and duly punish the offenders. Such sporadic outbreaks may be expected until all of the revolutionists understand the situation. It is characteristic of the first days of peace in a Latin country that has been torn by revolution.

General Moncada, the liberal leader, in an address Sunday said:

"The liberals believe that the United States cannot fail to back up the promises it has made to the liberals by the personal representative of President Coolidge, and the liberals, believing that the United States will guarantee fair elections in 1928, gladly placed their faith once again in the United States."

There can be no doubt as to the good faith of the president and the secretary of state. It is an obligation made by the president's envoy and accepted in the spirit of confidence.

It is sacred, and must not be overlooked when the Nicaraguan presidential campaign rolls around.

America's honor requires that we see to it that the election is a fair expression of the people.

LEGISLATION MUST ACT.

Three dead and a score injured as the traffic toll in Atlanta in 48 hours challenges the mayor, chief of police and the two recorders to renewed and more drastic activity in keeping the streets safe.

It is an economic problem as well as one of conserving the lives and limbs of the people.

If the streets are kept notorious-ly unsafe we may expect a portion of the thousands of motorists from the rural sections of Georgia who come to Atlanta every day to shop to become afraid of the traffic hazards.

Three of the automobile drivers who were involved in the series of Sunday accidents were arrested for operating automobiles while intoxicated. Again the steady, unceasing but ever-increasing flow of bootleg liquor leaves crime and tragedy in its wake. It is a situation that cannot be dealt with lightly. The drunken driver is a greater menace than the loose homicidal maniac, for he covers vastly more territory and necessarily endangers the lives of more people.

The legislature should deal with the traffic problem, not mildly but vigorously. There should be rigid state laws governing the licensing of automobile drivers. Drivers, whether owners or employees, who are caught operating cars in an intoxicated condition should not only have their licenses revoked permanently, but should be severely punished. Drunk at the steering wheel should be more than a misdemeanor even if by good fortune no tragedy had resulted at the time of arrest.

THE GEORGIA BANKERS.

Atlanta extends a cordial welcome to the delegates and their ladies in attendance upon the annual convention of the Georgia State Bankers' association.

Among the guests are a large number of prominent bankers from other states including Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, who is president also of the American Bankers' association.

The Georgia bankers are doing a splendid service in promoting better conditions in the rural sections, particularly as to stimulating balanced production, and helping in the advancement of cooperative marketing, and in the finding of new markets and new uses for farm commodities. One of the features of this year's convention will be a visit to the State Agricultural college at Athens, and a study of the great work that is being done to so modernize and intensify production methods that farming may not only become more profitable, but rural life more inviting.

It is hoped that in the legislative committee will be authorized to get vigorously behind a sane and sound standardization measure to be presented to the approaching legislature.

During the past year the Georgia association, through more than 100 group meetings, has done good work in preventing the repetition of bank failures, in safeguarding deposits, and in generally strengthening banking policies. It will make definite recommendations along these lines to the legislature.

In the meantime under its own procedure, with authority at hand, many loose ends have been caught up looking toward safe banking.

It is hoped that in the legislative recommendations may be a proposed law prohibiting any officer or director from borrowing, directly or indirectly, in person or through corporate or firm name, from the institution with which connected.

Entirely too many banks have been gutted from within—not necessarily through fraudulent intent but through the looseness of a system permitted by law.

The bankers' convention will be interspersed with many social features, and it is hoped that all the visitors may have an enjoyable stay in the city.

THE HORSE SHOW.

There is much interest in the second annual Atlanta Horse show, and there should be.

Opening Monday as a benefit to the Martha Berry schools, a share of the proceeds going for the erection of a mothers' memorial building at that great institution of the mountains, the throng of visitors who entered the gates of the Sunnyside track at Garden Hills were thrilled with the review of more than 100 of the finest and most beautiful saddle horses to be found in the south.

Entries are from five states and the show has attracted a large number of visitors.

Not only is it a great social occasion, in keeping with Atlanta's other first-mark cultural activities, but it will stimulate a greater interest in riding and healthful equestrian sports.

"All I said," replied his rival, "was that you are a low bass singer."

HOW MANY LESSONS WOULD IT TAKE?

The marriage of Pola Negri to Prince Madiani so shortly after prolonged grief over the death of Valentino proves that she has controlled her emotion.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

New York, May 16.—When a peanut purveyor spends a young fortune maintaining a huge, house-top incandescent sign on Broadway, advertising salted peanuts as the "Ideal Five-Cent Lunch," it's merely another indication that bold boulevard ain't what it used to be.

The day the first moving picture took its doors on Broadway and the orange drink sidewalk stall supplanted the justly celebrated lobster palace, Plaza Lane began its slide down the long, greased chute that leads to the land of has-beens.

The little army of newspaper brethren who earn their artichokes and English muffins by writing more or less pungent paragraphs, daily, for the collection of the out-of-town-newabout-town, either don't realize that the old Broadway has gone forever, or realize it, haven't either the heart or the requisite courage to speak the truth.

I have been traveling Theater Alley for more than 30 years, and believe me, when I say that "Broadway" is a tradition. It's like the old Apache trail out Arizona way, strewn today with the gaping, rusty bean cans of the Ford tourist.

But the penny-a-liners still write of it as if its glory had never diminished.

It would be interesting to learn just how long some of the professional New York commentators, who write for out-of-town consumption, have resided in the capital of the commonplace and wha their qualifications are for the jobs they hold.

If you know New York and then read some of the stuff these horn rim lads daily hale out to the customers living north, south and west of the Bronx Zoo, it almost makes you ashamed of your profession.

Human nature rolls along in New York on the same old commonplace level it attains in Sioux City and Paducah. A man lost a hundred-dollar bill at Broadway and Seventy-second Street the other night and advertised his loss in the following day's papers. He didn't get the money back, which makes the story perfect in every detail.

Anybody who pretends to be anybody on Broadway or Park Avenue and have been regarded as nobody has been seen "Sitting in" at the recent Snyder trial in Long Island City.

They trooped in and out, laughing and chattering, and altogether having a jolly time.

Of course, some of the pedestrian material to him in. The more wretched and the merging of many others achieved an olfactory monstrosity in its "sity" equal only to love's young dream.

The managing editor of one morning newspaper appeared with a party of friends and sent one of his staff "clerk" out for 20 packages of chewing gum, which distributed among the scoundrels, brutal murderer trial, can be wondered that decent men and women ask, "What has become of the high office of?

Take a package over to Mr. Beale's with my "compliments," he'd say, or, "carry a pack across to Mrs. Schlesinger, with my kindest regards."

At the noon adjournment hardly anyone left his seat. Most of them carried their luncheons. They dragged out chairs, and bit into bulbous tomatoes that leaked all over the floor. A lot who were not powdered sandwiches and "black maria's" loaded with criminals and the social parias of the day.

When great metropolitan newspapers consent to print twenty to thirty columns, daily and for weeks, of the political, social and other news items, it is a remarkable thing that the public interest in the "trials" of the century, the "Century Express," carrying knowledge and inspiration, continues now drawing goods trains and "black maria's" loaded with criminals and the social parias of the day.

When great metropolitan newspapers invade the clean homes of the Christian people of the land carrying the indecent details of the cat-fights of Hollywood buckstoppers in marriage and morals, how can they hope to retain the respect and approval of the honest, upright, decent people?

It is because the controllers of those newspapers are bad men? Not at all. It is because of a widespread lust to read such stuff and that the business office has a cash register installed where its conscience ought to stand.

A REVISION WILL COME. Some day the public sentiment respecting this liberalism of newspapers will change. The revision will put muzzles upon those who now believe they are "doing God's service" by keeping the world with the burlesque of religion and scandalous strength under tow. The public opinion of the world is being started against them, not by professional or prudish "reformers," but by conscientious men and women who believe that public morale and safety demand a revision of the ethics of journalism.

Some day the publishers of newspapers will wake up to the fact that they have been walking in the way that led to the lottery people and the licensed Justice in the Snyder trial sure.

To the schools of the people! The teachers of youth are to be the champions of our nation. They will re-establish American ideals and morals.

The following is a thought for today:

ANSWER.

Dramatic descriptions on the last phase of the war abounded in a book of memoirs published by Prince Max of Baden, the last imperial chancellor. Prince Max recaptures one moment so intensely dramatic that the reader feels he was conscious of it: I asked Ebert whether he would accept the office of chancellor. He replied: "If you are doing God's service?"

"Are you prepared to govern within the limits of the constitution?" Ebert affirmed this. Then I asked: "But within the limits of the monarchist constitution?" Ebert's reply was: "Yesterday I should have said yes!" unconditionally to this question. Today I must first consult my friends." From behind him there echoed a chorus of his party colleagues: "Too late! Too late!" Later Prince Max went to say goodbye to Ebert. I went between 5 and 6 to say good-bye to him. Ebert said: "I beg you earnestly to remain." I asked: "For what purpose?" Ebert said: "I want you to remain as regent." At the door I turned back. "Mr. Ebert, I beg you to have the interest of the Reich at heart." He replied: "I have lost two sons for the sake of this Reich."

THE FLYING DOVE. The dove flew well on Holy Saturday at Florence, so Italy will have a good harvest, the peasants believe.

The way this ceremony is enacted is as follows: A triumphal wagon with an erection of squibs, crackers, and Catherine wheel drawn by milk-white oxen stands in front of the cathedral. A wire connects the fireworks with a post erected by the high altar, and when the Gloria at mass has been sung the "dove" speeds down through the nave and lights the erection of fireworks on the old chariot outside in the plaza. The "dove" returns amid a shower of sparks to the high altar. If "the dove flies well" the peasants rejoice, because it is good augury for the crops, and the sprouting corn especially will flourish. It is said that Napoleon threatened the archbishop of Florence with heavy penalties if there was any hitch, but although the birds fast and well the crops failed that year.

PROFESSIONAL GUIDES.

Paris has a new prefect of police, like New York. The new man has outlined his policy. It is to "permit Parisians to earn their living in security." It is to give them "a clean city, well kept, where the evil fear the good." Evil-doers from thugs to swindlers, must not be allowed to look on our city as their domain," says M. Jean Chiappa. "It is also important to protect the young, who are exposed to such great perils in the great capitals. Paris will continue to do nothing to reasoned thinking. Quite otherwise, they attempt to explain the logic by the non-existing and the irrational. There is a wise and courageous and constructive editor in any American newspaper of today. To whom, then, is the power going? To the schools of the people! The teachers of youth are to be the champions of our nation. They will re-establish American ideals and morals.

The following is a thought for today:

ANSWER.

It is now emerging again from its retreat. Mind is a subtle and complex function of matter and experience, as nothing more than a self-organized body of responses to stimulation. The existence of God in the sense of an eternal and creative consciousness is cheerfully dismissed. Man is reduced with touching modesty to a mere creature of chance.

You now insist in asking how the non-conscious can itself produce the conscious. How, indeed? The answer is that it cannot unless leggedeman prevails over law. Speculations which try to make it do so belong to reasoned thinking. Quite otherwise, they attempt to explain the logic by the non-existing and the irrational.

This is confessedly bad metaphysics, but those who defend the process a priori their abhorrence for all metaphysics. Yet their own conception of the universe is a first-rate example of what they believe and must therefore be accepted.

Such discussions have little or no place in the public. Its business is not to "prove" God but to proclaim His Word.

This represented in nature is also imaged in man and revealed in Christ. These are the media of His communication with mortals for which preachers do not have to apologize.

Fortunately for civilization, pulpit and pulpit-making are, then, fearlessly and openly discussed. If they are silenced and the givens given over to the mechanistic theory which it has hitherto instinctively rejected, what do you suppose would be humanity's final reaction to a Godless universe?

Ramspeck in the saddle. The second prize was shared by Lady Flame, and Sparty, a Grey, both owned by D. L. Barksdale, of Brookhaven, and ridden respectively by Isabelle Hunter and Mr. Barksdale. Third prize went to Stonewall Jackson and Peter Pan, Fort McPherson entries, ridden by Colonel R. Van Agnew and Mrs. H. L. Lucking. My Quality Queen and Little Queen took fourth prize. Miss Shetland rode Madeline Doyle and Philip McDuffie was up on My Quality Queen.

Closing Event.

From the moment the show started—shortly after 2 o'clock—until awards were announced following the closing event of the day, patrons saw in promenade, saddle horses, ponies and midgets, a collective class which would have done justice to any horse show in the country.

Not secondary in accomplishment was the handling of the day's events by officials, who eliminated unnecessary delays and kept one event following upon the heels of the preceding one in minimum time. The smooth running of the show from the start was due to the skill of Lexington's Collins, named official of Lexington. Kentucky, acted as judge in all events excepting the hunter and jumper class, which was judged by Major A. Colley.

The show opened to a rapidly filling arena and closed with all seats in the house filled, excepting the first event brought off by three-gaited saddle horses of Atlanta and Fulton county with an entry list which produced the timest mounts in this district. Glorious Swanson, big bay mare owned by Mrs. Walter Rich, and ridden with Miss E. B. Rich, won the Captain Nash Major trophy. Cavalier, black horse owned by Robert E. Harvey and ridden by him, was adjudged second; Silver Chimes, owned and ridden by Mrs. Charles Riley, third; Partner, sorrel horse owned by Mrs. C. H. Becker, with Dick Hull in the saddle, fourth.

Mrs. Purse Wins.

A noted Atlanta housewife, Mrs. Mary Algood Purse, now of Chattanooga, won the winning number in the second event—and several others before the opening day of the show—when she won the three-gaited Atlanta saddle horse event for the Captain Jack Dardene trophy. Mrs. Purse's mount, Major Forrest, owned by P. C. McDuffie, Jr., won the trophy. Kathleen Lee, owned by Miss Betty Watson and ridden by Mrs. Carl Ransdorp, second; Crusader, owned and ridden by John K. Onder, third; and Chorus, also owned by P. C. McDuffie, Jr., with Miss Pam Johnson up, fourth.

The open three-gaited saddle horse event for members 13 hands and under also went to Major Forrest, Mrs. Purse up, with Crusader Terley's horse, second; Dusty Flora, owned by J. B. Hecht of Greenville, and ridden by R. E. Gifford of that city, third; Aristocrat, owned by A. D. L. Barksdale, with R. M. Gifford up, fourth.

Three-gaited entries won prizes in the open event for five-gaited saddle horses under 15 hands, 2 inches. First prize was awarded to Anna Forest, owned and ridden by Sara Shetland, of Savannah; second prize to Abeida, ridden by Wallace Bailey, for the Hobbit Farms, of Montgomery; Lady King, owned by Charles E. Scott, of Chattanooga, and ridden by R. M. Gifford, third; Flushing Bess, chestnut mare, owned and ridden by Mrs. Charles E. Waring of Atlanta, fourth.

Fireson Gets Ribbon.

Fireson, noted Hobbit Farms entry, which has won many ribbons in Kentucky shows, drew down the ribbon in the open event for three-gaited horses under 15 hands, 2 inches. First prize was awarded to Anna Forest, owned and driven by Sara Shetland, of Savannah; second prize to Abeida, ridden by Wallace Bailey, for the Hobbit Farms, of Montgomery; Lady King, owned by Charles E. Scott, of Chattanooga, and ridden by R. M. Gifford, third; Flushing Bess, chestnut mare, owned and ridden by Mrs. Charles E. Waring of Atlanta, fourth.

The arena burst into applause when the judges for the open event pranced through the gate with Morgan Lee, famous flack from the Hobbit Farms of Montgomery, in the lead. Morgan Lee was ably handled by Wallace Bailey and took first prize for the open five-gaited events, with Glorious Swanson, Mrs. Walter Rich being adjudged best in the saddle, second; Will-o'-the-Wisp, owned by J. A. Market of Norfolk, and ridden by R. R. Gifford, third; Cavalier, owned and ridden by R. E. Harvey, of Atlanta, fourth.

The ponies' division was handled in three events, those 18 inches and under, and under and over the championship event—the Henry Grady hotel trophy, which went to the winner of the selected entries from the previous events. These events brought out a number of fine entries.

First Division.

The first division, between 48 and 58 inches, was for the Fred M. Patterson trophy. It was won by Lady Flame, and ridden by George P. C. McCarty, Jr., of Atlanta. Second prize went to Outrageous Sammy, owned and ridden by Anna Stewart Gibson, of Savannah; Scout, owned and driven by Billie Inman, of Atlanta, third; Duke, owned and ridden by Martha G. Godwin, of Atlanta.

Three-gaited ponies 18 inches and under, was won by Honest Dan, with George McDuffie up, second; Budgie, owned and ridden by Arthur Howell, third; Tyree, owned and ridden by John Schroeder; fourth; Brownie, owned and ridden by Robert E. Harvey.

In the champion pony event, too, no one entry was a winner. From the previous two events, Lady Pat, owned and ridden by George W. McCarty, Jr., received the prize and trophy given by the Henry Grady hotel.

The event for three-gaited saddle horses in pairs brought out another interesting list, and one of the finest harness and horsemanship in this part of the south. The first prize was awarded the pair embracing Major Forrest, P. C. McDuffie entry with Mrs. Purse up, and to Kathleen Lee, owned by Trammell Scott with Mrs.

McAdoo Opens Legal Offices In Washington

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
Washington, May 16.—(United News)—Law offices have been opened here by William G. McAdoo, one of the leading contenders in the historic democratic marathon at Madison Square last year.

McAdoo that his Los Angeles law practice has grown so rapidly that he needs a Washington branch to handle its eastern business, many politicians view this as the establishment by McAdoo of an eastern political command post preparatory to taking a hand in the coming fight over the democratic presidential nomination.

This belief is based on the often-mentioned principle that one man gets the presidential buzz, he never is cured; that even if he sees little chance for himself he wants to have a voice in the nomination.

His Neighbors.

McAdoo has a suite of three large offices in the Southern Building in downtown Washington. Adjoining his suite is the Washington office of the Aluminum Company of America, controlled by the Mellon interests, and across the corridor is the William J. Burns Detective agency. McAdoo will be here later in the week to inspect his new eastern headquarters. They are in charge of Brix Claggett, his secretary for several years.

Washington is an ideal strategic point for a political headquarters and during the pre-convention season most active candidates open offices here. Both political parties maintain national headquarters here and Washington is the natural gathering point of politicians from all parts of the country. McAdoo has indicated that he will be an active candidate. Many politicians believe he will not go after delegates as he did in 1924 but will work quietly for second-choice pledges. Others believe he will be content to block Smith and put over a friendly candidate. This last probably is the more likely.

Has Lost Strength.

Every packing-and-political condition indicates McAdoo has lost rather than gained strength since 1924 and if that is the case the best he can hope to do is to help defeat his old rival and throw the nomination to a friend.

Inquiries regarding McAdoo's strength in the west have disclosed a unique situation in Utah where Senator William H. King and his brother, Sam King, a moderate leader, have split over Smith and McAdoo. The senator, who is up for reelection next year, still is friendly to McAdoo. His brother has undertaken to obtain a Utah delegation for Smith.

Sam King was formerly state democratic chairman and is now a member of the state executive committee, a powerful factor in the state organization. He is understood to have promised Smith that he can deliver the delegation. His brother, the senator, is bone-dry and strongly opposed to McAdoo throughout. 1924 deadlock. Though only eight states are involved, a switch in such a typical state from the heart of McAdoo's country would be hailed by Smith workers as a significant indication of the trend from McAdoo to the governor of New York.

FUND DRIVE PLANS FOR DECATUR BODY MADE AT MEETING

Decatur, Ga., May 16.—(Special.) Twenty-five of the 26 members of the executive committee of the Decatur Chamber of Commerce named on the budget drive, were present tonight at the first organization meeting.

J. Howell Green, chairman, presided and plans were discussed for the campaign, which officially opens next Monday to raise a total of $10,000 to cover the expenses of the Decatur Chamber of Commerce during the next year. This fund will be used in advertising, maintenance and other expenses.

It was planned tonight that the campaign body will be composed of 12 teams of six men each, making 72 men actively at work to raise the sum of $1000. The teams will be divided into four divisions of three teams each.

The next meeting will be held next Thursday night, it was announced, when further plans for the drive will be outlined. All meetings held this week will be in preparation for the drive which opens next Monday, it was announced.

The meeting was held in the Elite

FIRST "AD" WINNERS NAMED WEDNESDAY

Put as many ads as you wish in the contest envelope.

5—The contestant is under no obligation of any kind.

6—A different group of judges will be selected and announced each week from among Atlanta advertising men.

7—The expense of the prizes will be paid by the city of Atlanta.

Tips for contestants follow:

Hemlock 3500 Tire Co.

As the name of the Hemlock 3500 Tire company indicates, this is an institution that is at our service from the word "go". The following this company has gained in the one short year of its existence clearly indicates that Atlanta motorists appreciate the distinction with which Hemlock 3500 tires are made, arrive and the painstaking care with which the work is promptly done. Men like the "hurry up" service this company renders on the road and in its station, and women like the cleanliness and comfort of the service station as well as the courtesy of its attendants.

The electric industry recognized the need for a mechanical system in the home which would perform perfectly with a minimum of human effort. Every modern home is now equipped with a variety of domestic machines that can be guided and controlled by a woman.

To the woman who appreciates how much electricity has helped, the writing of ads for the Georgia Power company should be an easy assignment.

who, with Chamorro (General Emilio Chamorro, former president) plotted a coup d'etat which followed the constitution and the Centro-American treaties signed in Washington which were made for the purposes of strengthening those countries' constitutional order and democratic institutions by means of impartial elections.

If do not believe, as Mr. Stimson has said, that the recognition of Diaz's presidency is necessary to the honor and prestige of the United States. On the contrary, my belief is that a great nation acquires honor and prestige by respect for the sovereignty of smaller countries instead of by the oppression of those which struggle for the security of their institutions.

Has Exercised Rights.

"In the exercise of the unpreceded intimation from Mr. Stimson, which he confined in writing to General Jose Moncada (liberal commander-in-chief), stating that the American troops would disarm my army by force if we did not accept the Diaz presidency, my government has fully exercised its right to protect the only weapon the weak can wield against the strong who tries to humiliate them.

"I, with the people of the United States who have so nobly though vainly pleaded for justice to Nicaragua, think that my people are destined to sacrifice and the lives of marines are also to be vainly sacrificed, the useless bloodshed will only be caused by the attitude of the American government.

"The interference of foreign troops in violation of the rights of a country which has so far been unable to defend them in any way is so exasperating that, despite the enormous disparity between the two countries, it seems likely, and I fear, that my army will object to forcible disarmament in spite of the requests made by my delegates and General Moncada.

"I, with the people of the United States, which has so nobly though vainly pleaded for justice to Nicaragua, think that my people are destined to sacrifice and the lives of marines are also to be vainly sacrificed, the useless bloodshed will only be caused by the attitude of the American government.

"I know nothing whatsoever regarding the agreement made by General Moncada with Mr. Stimson. All I know is that a conference with Mr. Stimson, accompanied by other delegates or General Moncada signing any agreement and also to their protests they added that we would not accept any kind of participation in the Diaz government, any responsibility derived therefrom."

GO UP TO IT.

Stimson, in his message to the state department, said that troops of both liberal and conservative armies, after giving up their arms were hurrying to their homes to plant this year's crops and resume their peacetime occupations.

"This result," he said, "has been accomplished by the faith of both sides in our promise to supervise the election.

American marines thus far have received from the liberal and conservative troops 6,200 rifles, 272 machine guns and 5,000,000 rounds of ammunition, and Mr. Stimson declared that there also seems less danger of banditry and guerrilla warfare than at first feared.

AMERICAN MARINES.

SLAIN IN NICARAGUA.

Washington, May 16.—(Special)—American marines in Nicaragua have suffered their first serious casualties since they were patched to that war-torn country last January for the announced purpose of protecting American lives and property.

Captain Richard B. Buchanan, of this city, and Private Marvin A. Jackson, of Chicago, were killed, and two other marines wounded slightly.

Full Report Promised.

No further details were obtained in the morning. Admiral Latimer, commanding American naval forces in Nicaragua, who forwarded it, declaring he would send a lengthier report later.

The dispatch followed an earlier one from Latimer reporting an attack by the rebels on the American camp at Chinandega Saturday night, and coincided with a message received by the state department from Henry L. Stimson, personal representative of President Coolidge in Nicaragua, stating that the civil war in that country "is now definitely ended."

The Stimson message was dated today, the date he set for his departure for home after arranging a truce between the conservative and liberal forces. He expressed the belief that the way is now open for the development of Nicaragua along the lines of peace, order and ultimate government.

The latest attacks on American forces, however, as they have a dozen or more in which no casualties have occurred, revived interest here in the ever. A few miles below here and adjacent crops were reported damaged, with trees twisted and uprooted.

They expressed the belief that such sporadic attempts to stir up trouble as have occurred in the last few days could not be laid to any particular group, and probably would recur at intervals, in view of the fact that several attacks have been made away in the process of disarming the liberals and conservatives and are now running loose over the country.

Hail Storm at Girard.

Girard, Ga., May 16.—(Special)—Girard was visited last week by a heavy hailstorm, the ground being almost covered with a white sheet, followed by bright sunshine. Before the ice had time to melt the earth presented an unusual spectacle. No damage was reported to crops, however. A few miles below here and adjacent crops were reported damaged, with trees twisted and

VIADUCT BOND MEET SET TODAY

Railroad engineers and city and county commissioners officially met at 11:30 o'clock this morning to discuss plans for the Prior street and Central avenue viaducts, it was announced Monday afternoon by Mayor L. N. Ragsdale, who called the conference session.

This is the first definite step looking toward selection of recently revised plans for construction of the bridges, and contemplates lowering of the railroad tracks over which they will be built.

Railroads already have tentatively agreed to the proposal, and the session took place after action taken at a previous conference. Members of the bridge committee of city council, the viaducts contract committee of the bond commission, headed by A. D. Greenfield, road engineers and executives of Georgia Power company representing other high city, county and bond commission officials are expected to attend the session.

Every effort to perfect plans for construction of the viaducts will be made so that contracts can be let by July 1, the date on which bond funds will become available. Machinery of the city government is now set in motion looking toward sale of all viaduct and city hall bonds, $2,000,000 June 15, for delivery July 1, and the meeting today is to hasten preparations that actual work can begin immediately after the money becomes available.

City council Monday afternoon authorized expenditure of $25,000 additional to carry forward costs of construction of the viaducts, but while so attacked the validity of the entire issue as to prevent sale of the securities.

The city has accepted a compromise agreement in which litigants failed to file an appearance from an adverse decision the city has been cleared of the charge of the bonds.

Allocations for schools, waterworks and other improvements were contained in the $8,000,000 issue, and plans for an intensive construction program are being mapped out as rapidly as possible. It was said Monday in contention that the administration by the city is using the money to push improvements to early completion.

W. P. PRICE RENAMED PURCHASING AGENT

William P. Price, city purchasing agent for the past four years, Monday was reelected unanimously by council to that position for another two-year term. Newt Landers, former city councilman, withdrew and would not allow his nomination.

Mr. Price was nominated for the post by Councilman Wylie Moore, of the seventh, and the nomination was seconded by Councilman Jim Ozburn, of the seventh; Alderman Claude Buchanan, of the eighth; Alderman W. G. Dobbs, of the seventh, and Dr. C. J. Vaughan, councilman from the fourth.

High tribute to the service of Mr. Price and the efficient manner in which he has conducted his office was paid by Dr. Vaughan and Mr. Buchanan, both of whom later headed the purchasing committee of council since his election as purchasing agent of the city.

"Mr. Price is conscientious, efficient and is always seeking to be of the highest service to Atlanta in his official position," the said. "We feel that a better man could not be selected for the place."

Alderman Dobbs stated from the floor that Mr. Landers wished to publicly thank his friends for their support and said that Mr. Landers had requested that he not be placed in nomination for the post.

Mayor L. N. Ragsdale held the election in the council chamber.

Mr. Price has been purchasing agent of the city since 1923, and since that time has inaugurated many innovations in the purchasing department which it is said have saved the city thousands of dollars.

Blanks Stolen From Postoffice Quickly Cashed

Burglars who stole a number of money order blanks from the postoffice at Bladen, Ga., on Wednesday night, have lost no time in realizing on the forms, according to information received Monday by Joe P. Johnston, postmaster there.

One of the stolen forms, No. 7325, was cashed at Jacksonville, Fla., the day following the robbery by a tall negro wearing overalls and a jumper, Mr. Johnston was advised. The order was drawn for $200, an official stamp stuck on the bill form being used to make out the bogus order.

Inspector Johnston warned Georgians to watch out for the forged money orders, which are $5 in number, running from serial No. 7316 to 7400 inclusive.

DR. W. W. MEMMINGER WILL SPEAK AT W. & L.

The Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of the All Saints' Episcopal church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon for the 1927 commencement at Washington and Lee university, June 27.

Dr. Memminger, who came originally from Charleston, South Carolina, is a graduate of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., having received both academic and theological degrees there.

Dr. Memminger also is one of the best known readers of Shakespearean classics in the country, having spent two years in New York city preparing for a stage career before deciding to enter the ministry.

Dr. Memminger is the son of Rev. R. W. Memminger, of Charleston, S. C., and the grandson of C. G. Memminger, secretary of the treasury of the Confederate States of America.

Seminary Head Urges
Pastor's Cooperation
In Success of School

The necessity for financial cooperation of the Presbyterian church with the seminary of the Southern Synod which moved headquarters to Atlanta on May 5, and the offer of a site on the campus of the seminary for the newly organized historical society of the Southern Presbyterian church, were included in the talk made by Dr. R. T. Gillespie, president of the seminary, Monday evening before the Presbyterian Ministers' association.

Dr. Gillespie reminded ministers of the dependence of the seminary upon financial support of the church and urged that leaders continue to cooperate with the institution. He stated that buildings were expected on the grounds by July 15 and that all belongings of the seminary would be moved from Columbia, S. C., to Atlanta during August.

The Atlanta Presbytery has six representatives who are preparing to leave for Eldorado, Ark., to attend the general assembly of the Presbyterian church which convenes Thursday. Representatives are Rev. C. W. McMurry, of the Morningside Presbyterian church; Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, of the North Avenue Presbyterian; Rev. G. W. Sheffer, of the Moor Memorial Presbyterian, and Elders W. M. Everett, of Wesley Memorial; Robert R. Cunningham, of Gordon street Presbyterian, and George R. Lewis, of Moore Memorial.

JOHNSTON TO ATTEND
POSTAL CONVENTION

Joe P. Johnston, inspector in charge of the Atlanta division of the post-office service, left Monday night for Miami, Fla., to attend the annual convention of Florida postmasters. Mr. Johnston will deliver an address at the meeting. He will return to Atlanta at the end of this week.

Burglars who stole a number of money order blanks from the postoffice at Bladen, Ga., on Wednesday night, have lost no time in realizing on the forms, according to information received Monday by Joe P. Johnston, postmaster there.

One of the stolen forms, No. 7325, was cashed at Jacksonville, Fla., the day following the robbery by a tall negro wearing overalls and a jumper, Mr. Johnston was advised. The order was drawn for $200, an official stamp stuck on the bill form being used to make out the bogus order.

Inspector Johnston warned Georgians to watch out for the forged money orders, which are $5 in number, running from serial No. 7316 to 7400 inclusive.

DR. W. W. MEMMINGER WILL SPEAK AT W. & L.

The Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of the All Saints' Episcopal church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon for the 1927 commencement at Washington and Lee university, June 27.

Dr. Memminger, who came originally from Charleston, South Carolina, is a graduate of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., having received both academic and theological degrees there.

Dr. Memminger also is one of the best known readers of Shakespearean classics in the country, having spent two years in New York city preparing for a stage career before deciding to enter the ministry.

Dr. Memminger is the son of Rev. R. W. Memminger, of Charleston, S. C., and the grandson of C. G. Memminger, secretary of the treasury of the Confederate States of America.

Seminary Head Urges
Pastor's Cooperation
In Success of School

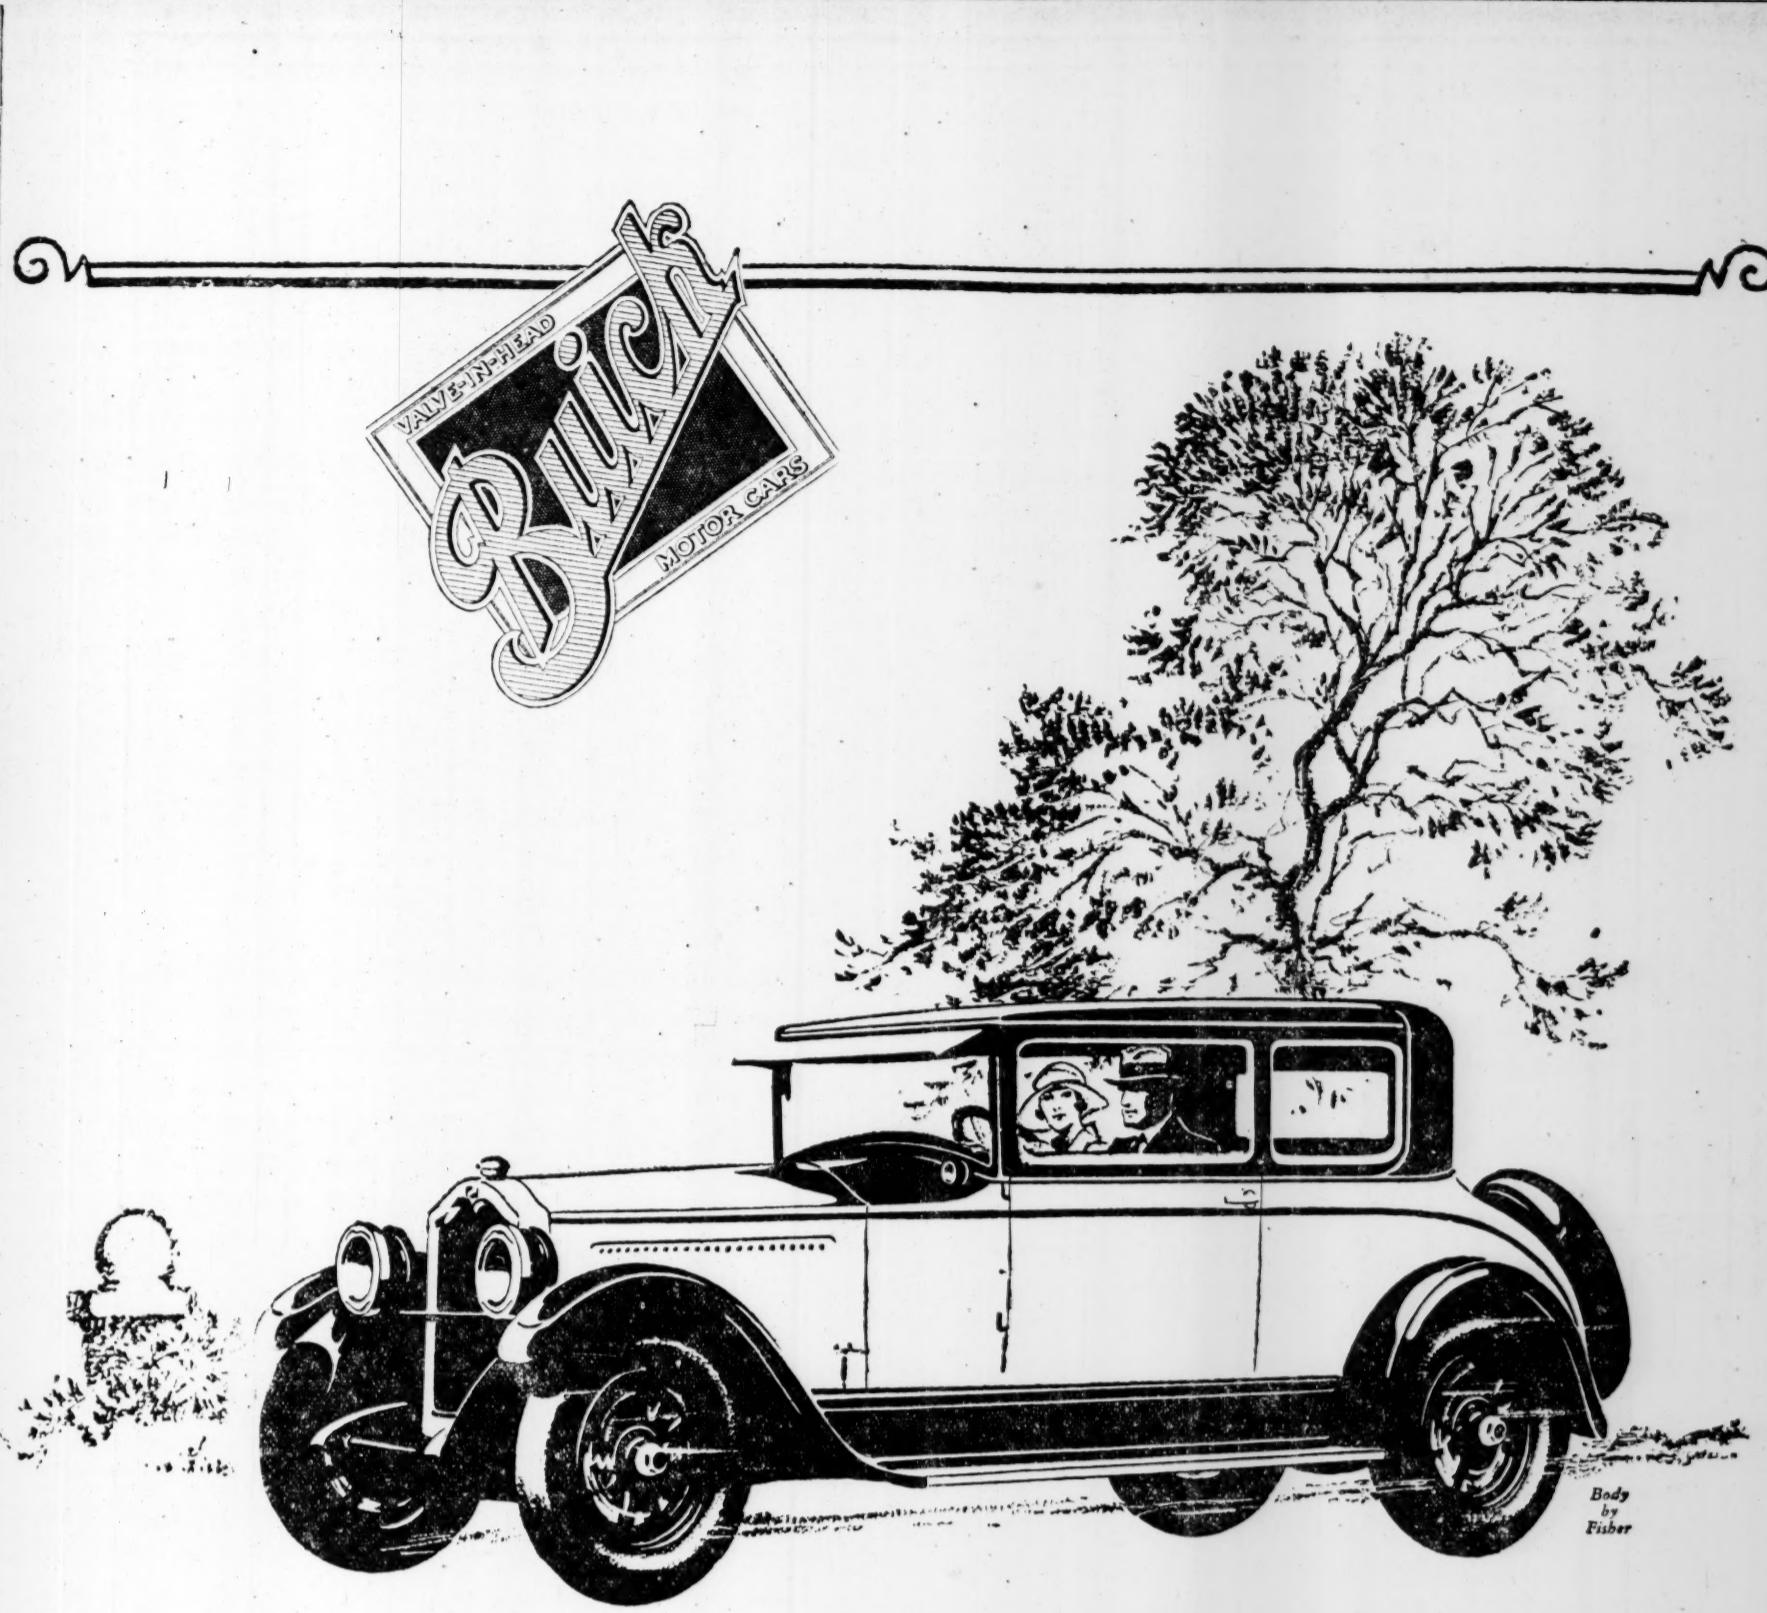

The necessity for financial cooperation of the Presbyterian church with the seminary of the Southern Synod which moved headquarters to Atlanta on May 5, and the offer of a site on the campus of the seminary for the newly organized historical society of the Southern Presbyterian church, were included in the talk made by Dr. R. T. Gillespie, president of the seminary, Monday evening before the Presbyterian Ministers' association.

Dr. Gillespie reminded ministers of the dependence of the seminary upon financial support of the church and urged that leaders continue to cooperate with the institution. He stated that buildings were expected on the grounds by July 15 and that all belongings of the seminary would be moved from Columbia, S. C., to Atlanta during August.

JOHNSTON TO ATTEND
POSTAL CONVENTION

Joe P. Johnston, inspector in charge of the Atlanta division of the post-office service, left Monday night for Miami, Fla., to attend the annual convention of Florida postmasters. Mr. Johnston will deliver an address at the meeting. He will return to Atlanta at the end of this week.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY, MAY 17, 1927.

Buick value is greater today than ever before

Because Buick is a beautiful car. Its Fisher Bodies are distinguished for their smart, stylish design, rich Duco colors and fine coachcraft. Its closed-car interiors are truly luxurious—with finely-textured upholsteries and softly-cushioned seats tilted at just the right angle to give maximum riding comfort.

Because Buick performance is superb. In a Buick you can race like a greyhound over any road, take steep hills or pull through deep sand or mud in high—for the famous Buick six-cylinder Valve-in-Head engine develops more power for its size than any other automobile engine built. Yet it is economical to operate and vibrationless, beyond belief.

Because Buick has always used the savings of volume to further enrich quality; and to provide such famous Buick features as the Sealed Chassis, Triple-Sealed Engine, Torque-Tube-Drive and Vacuum Ventilator.

Because Buick's initial cost is low and it is economical to operate.... For these reasons, Buick value is greater today than ever before. Examine Buick, point by point; compare it with other cars before you make your choice.

Delegate To National Musical Convention Makes Report

Mrs. F. A. Heide, of the Atlanta Music club, who represented Mrs. F. Bailey, of Savannah, president of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, at the fifteenth biennial convention of the national federation, which was recently held in Chicago, has returned. During her stay in Chicago Mrs. Heide was an outstanding figure at the convention. She was the only woman from Georgia to be asked to serve on the national nominating committee.

"The convention," reports Mrs. Heide, "was known everywhere as the most successful and productive ever given in the history of the national federation. The high light of cultural contributions to the convention was the production of the national federation's prize musical composition, which was given by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. This composition was C. Hugo Grimm's 'Erotic Poem,' which was one of the numbers in the concert on the opening evening of the convention. On the following night the Chicago Civic Opera company presented 'Faust.'

sing in English.

Choral Singing.

"Hundreds of voices were assembled on the following evening for massed choral singing, under the direction of Dr. Charles N. Boyd, who had led choral singing for the federation for several years.

A special treat was afforded by the Philadelphia Wizards, a harmonic band, under their director, Allen N. Hoxie. There is now a movement to establish harmonica bands throughout Georgia, a move which, under the proper organization, has proved one of the most effective means of interest in the music development. The $1,000 grand offered by the Opera club for the singer winning in the young artist contest was split between Hilda Burke, of Baltimore, and Kathryn Witter, of Chicago, who tied for first place. The new campaign with the opportunity of singing with the Chicago Opera company and affords an opportunity for an audition with the Metropolitan Opera company.

Officers Elected.

Mrs. Edgard Stillman Kelley, wife of the famous composer, was unanimously reelected president of the national federation. Mrs. William Arms Fisher, of Boston, remains the vice president; Mrs. E. J. O'Neil, of Port Huron, Michigan, vice president; and Mrs. Abbie L. Shoddy, of Mexico, Mo., treasurer. The new third vice president is Mrs. J. A. Jaridine, of Fargo, N. D.; recording secretary, Mrs. T. C. Donova, of Pittsburgh, and corresponding secretary, Miss Margaret Haas, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Don't Be Skinny and Scrawny!

New YEAST and IRON will add pounds of weight in 3 weeks—or you pay nothing

If you are skinny as a rail and can hardly drag your tired body through each day, do something to put on good, firm flesh. Start right now taking Ironized Yeast and get pounds of weight where you need it.

How Ironized Yeast Makes Weight and Strength

Ironized Yeast is now tonic in one-weight-building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured yeast, concentrated to the utmost in flesh-producing value.

This Yeast is treated with pure, vegetable iron, the same as in spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form Iron is easily assimilated by the body, making rich, red blood and toning up nerves and muscles.

Our Yeast is Ironized in the oven at 100° F. so that no heat is needed to bring out the weight-building values of Yeast. By this special formula Ironized Yeast gives you results in half the time required by yeast or iron taken separately.

It clears the blood of impurities that form cellulite, so that you get a clear, healthy skin. Go to your druggist and get a handy bottle. It will prove to you that you can be made attractive and healthy. Safe for everybody. Gives all the weight-building benefits of cod liver oil. 60 nice tasty tablets to a bottle.

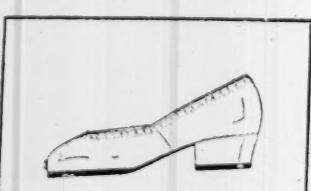

Try it on "Money Back" Offer

Just ask your druggist for a full size treatment. If you are not satisfied, get your money back. It will be refunded immediately. If inconvenient to buy from the druggist, send $1.00 direct to the Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Desk 26E.

Boys' High Orchestra Features Meeting Of College Park Club

A concert by the Boys' High School orchestra featured the meeting of the College Park Music club Wednesday afternoon, at the city hall auditorium. The work of G. W. Walters, conductor, was outstanding in its effectiveness, the orchestra giving renditions of several classic numbers. Special features were violin solo, "Cavatina" by Raff, which was given by Joseph Glazer; a string quartet, "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell, played by Nodas Kakis, first violin; Joseph Glazer, second violin; Hyuna Kraar, viola, and Nicholas Chotas, violin-cello. This is the first and only school symphony orchestra in the south and the performance of these young musicians is really remarkable.

The personnel of the orchestra is as follows: First violins, Nodas Kakis, concertmaster; Joseph Glazer, assistant concertmaster; Deneen McCormick, David Cohen, Richard T. Briece, Randolph Cummings, Hyman Katz, Marvin Goldstein, Sam Berger, Deffen; second violins, Glenn Olson, principal; Edward Vajda, Harold Karpel, Edward L. Mims, John H. Schulz, Jr., Peter Negri, Samuel Citron, Louis Regenstein, Jr., Sidney Parks, Israel Greenberg; viola, Hyman Kravitz, violin-cello, Nicholas Chotas, David Goldwater, Charles Dowman, Jr.; flutes and piccolos, Gladstone Pursey; R. Conwell Shoup; oboes, Paul Lindig, Dwight Goldsby; bassoon, Warren Rhodes; clarinets, Max Weitzman, John M. Dozier, Edward R. Kane; saxophone, Rachel Belle, Ethelmae Wilson, W. H. Hunter, Sidney G. Wright; first trumpets, T. Brown; second trumpets, Morris Atkinson, Charles A. Beckmann; trombones, Willard E. Range, John Applegate; tuba, Garnett Carter; percussion, W. Herbert Burrows (timpani), George Cotsakis (snare), James L. Williams, Donald Oldman (cymbals); Jack Goldberg (drums); business manager, R. T. Briece; property manager, R. W. Morris; librarian, Donald McNair.

Preceding the program a business session was held, the president, Mrs. Frederic L. Beers, presiding. It was decided to change the time of the executive board that the club hold meetings monthly during the club year 1927-28, instead of bi-monthly, with several evening meetings. The nominating committee will give the report of recommendations for incoming officers at the next meeting, which will be held Wednesday, May 25.

Shorter College Campus Notes.

ROME, Ga., May 14.—The May day celebration at Shorter took the form of an old English May day fete. Miss Carswell, of Irwinton, presiding over her court as loveliest queen, the scenes being staged on the grassy plot lying in front of the college court and having as a background the balustrade.

The dramatic recital by Miss Vera Cochran, Carlisle, who interpreted "Smilin' Through," was an artistic event of the week.

Electives of officers of two study clubs centered interest of students. As president of the Classical club Miss Ruth Evans, of Mayfield, Ky., will have as her first officer: Miss Frances Benson, Marietta, vice president; Miss Martha Jordan, secretary; Miss Dorothy Sims, Rome, treasurer.

Mrs. Evelyn Wright, Columbus, was elected president of the International Relations club; Miss Etheldred Morton, Rome, is vice president; Miss Ruth Lillard, Sweetwater, Tenn., is secretary; Miss Emmie Colclough, librarian.

Mrs. W. F. Askew, of Atlanta, placement; secretary of the Georgia College Placement office, spoke at chapel Wednesday morning and spent some time in conference with students during the day.

Rev. Wade Cathren Smith, noted evangelist of the Presbyterian church, was chapel speaker Friday.

Friday Night Owls' Club Given Party.

The Friday Night Owls' club was entertained at a bridge party and dinner-dance given at the home of Mrs. A. A. Scobin, on Georgia avenue, S. W., Friday evening, May 13. The prizes were won by Ralph Orrie and Miss Sara Evans.

Those present were Misses Eloise O'Neal, Tempie Evans, Sara Evans, Ruby Minor, Geraldine Scobin, Thelma Carr, Leslie Davis, Lois Wright, Louise Wright, Mrs. A. A. Scobin, Mr. Hall, John H. College Park Voters Study Citizenship.

The College Park League of Women Voters held the annual citizenship school Tuesday, May 10, in the library room of Cox college, assembling a group of women interested in the subject of legislation.

Miss E. C. Lytle, president, introduced the speakers, Mrs. Turman, president Atlanta league, and Mrs. George Matson, secretary, who ably conducted the school. Mrs. Turman spoke on legislation and told of the process of the passage of a bill through the state legislature, giving in detail the rather intricate system of procedure and adoption. Mrs. Turman spoke of the bills to be presented to this, the first biennial session, concerning women and child welfare.

Mrs. Matson spoke of the many needed measures of reform in the state legislature, the people of the state may enjoy the highest degree of development. In concluding, Mrs. Matson gave a summary of the outstanding work and ideals of the National League of Women Voters convention recently held in Washington, D. Miss Pickard Weds Mr. Tappan At North Ave. Church Ceremony

Among the loveliest of the early May weddings was that of Miss Marquette Augusta Pickard and Lee Marvin Tappan which was solemnized at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening at the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

The marriage service was read by the Rev. Richard Oliver Flinn, pastor of the church, the ceremony being attended by a large assemblage of friends and relatives.

Ernest Allen, as soloist, sang "Because" and "O Promise Me," preceding the ceremony. The organist, Mrs. Schubert, soloed during the ceremony. Mendelssohn's wedding march changed to the march from "Lohengrin" was played with the entrance of the bride into the church.

Mrs. J. H. Pickard, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowned in black lace fashion over a slip of flesh-colored georgette. A shoulder spray of lavender sweet peas finished her costume.

The ushers, who were Wilmer Greiner, J. J. Conoley, L. C. Doggett, all of Atlanta, and Donald Blount, of Waynesboro, entered first in pairs, passing down the central aisle of the church.

They were followed by the three bridesmaids, Misses Claudine Seymour, Julia Gardner and Elizabeth Graham, who were gowned alike in blue, the gown, the wide skirts scalloped and finished with hemmed blue tulle fringed with silver threads.

Mrs. Henry E. Genz was her sister's matron of honor. She was modestly gowned in orchid georgette, the bonfetti skirt fashioned entirely of tiny ruffles, picoted in silver. An orchid butterfly caught with a rhinestone brooch formed an effective finish, being caught to the back at the deep V neckline.

Miss Mae Harris as maid of honor, wore pastel green georgette, her gown being an exact replica of that worn by the matron of honor. They carried shower bouquets of Columbia roses, larkspur and silver stars.

The lovely bride entered the church with her brother, Henry E. Genz, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, John C. Tappan, who acted as best man.

Beautiful Bride.

The beauty of the bride was enhanced by her wedding robes of soft white georgette, the bodice of the skirt decorated with wide flounces of transparent shadow lace. The sleeveless bodice was finished with a bertha of exquisite duchess lace, the waistline being effectively finished with hand-made flowers. Her tulle veil was caught to her hair in becoming cap fashion, with a coronet of duchess lace, caught with graceful sprays of forget-me-nots arranged across her brow, a short veil of hand-made thread lace falling over the shoulders. An arm bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies completed the lovely costume.

Mr. Fred Pickard, son of the bride, was handsomely gowned in black lace fashion over a slip of flesh-colored georgette. A shoulder spray of lavender sweet peas finished his costume.

Mrs. E. L. Tappan, mother of the groom, was handsomely gowned in a bouquet of carnations and valley lilies caught to her left shoulder.

Mrs. James P. Blanton, sister of the groom, was an attractive figure, wearing a model of flesh georgette. Her flowers were pink rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. Tappan and his bride left for a motor trip to Washington, D. C. On their return they will make their home with the bride's mother at her home on Ponce de Leon place.

Motherhood and Companionship

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton, of Kansas City. "I was terribly tempted to give up the burden of terrible suffering and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe every woman who longs would like to know the secret of my happiness and would gladly reveal it to any married woman who would like to know. Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton, 1100 Massachusetts, Kansas City, Mo. Correspondence will be strictly confidential.

Well, we've heard since our childhood, "She's now on the shelf." Never dreaming this phrase could apply to oneself. But a debut will date you And not without reason, We'll begin to overhear "Oh, she came out last season." We can't stop their talking.

But here's what let's do; Let's play often together And stay young our lives through. If they will not allow us to stay young and free, There's only one course of action. For it seems to be Quite fatal here lately To one and to all;

Let's each take some classes Out at Ogletorpe next fall.

'Ask Me Another' Contest Makes Miss Newell's Party a Success

Debutantes of 1926-27 frolicked for the last time as a club Friday afternoon, at the "Kid Party" at which Miss Anne Lane Newell, treasurer of the club, was hostess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Newell, on Clifton road, in Druid Hills.

Gathering in Miss Newell's back yard at 5 o'clock, the guests played games. Two sides were chosen, keen competition was shown in the many events staged. A balloon race, a crack-the-egg contest, stringed marshmallow race, tag and hide and seek were enjoyed, prizes being awarded for the winner of each. Miss Mary Rhorer won a soap bubble box; Miss Virginia Torrance, a ten set; Miss Yolande

Gwin, a circus picture book, and Miss Sara Hurt, a fancy colored balloon.

Novel Contest.

A merry feature of the occasion was the "Ask Me Another" contest. Miss Newell submitted appropriate questions to her guests, the questions and answers are as follows:

To what court did we send our fairest maid? Mardi Gras, Isabelle Breitbacher. By whom were we represented at the Confederate reunion? Sara Hurt. Whose picture adorns the dresser of a past winner of the Rhodes scholarship? Mary Rhorer.

Which of our members has given us most satisfaction? Alice Gwin. Who is going to gossip with any other? Edna Leyman. Which of our members' name denotes fastness? Frisky Cooper. Who did we fear would not be one of our members because of the report that she would be married last fall on her return from Europe and yet still with us, seemingly heart-whole and tame? Eddie Bailey.

Who do our names get in all the papers? Yolande Gwin.

Who has the "cutest little baby face?" Frances Floyd.

What witty Yankee girl we are so happy to have with us who is soon to leave Atlanta? Helen Barber.

Who lends us an entree to Cole Book company through a most attractive card? Mrs. E. C. Cole.

Which number seems to summer in Europe each year? Lutitia Johnson.

What out-of-town member do we best? Rosa Harbin, of Rose.

Which of our members made her formal bow also in Birmingham? Clara Belle King.

On whom will we call to decorate our houses providing we wish such distinction? Mary Arnold.

Whose claim to fame now seems to lie in a younger sister who follows her in popular collegium?

Louise Arnold.

Who went to the charity ball as a tiger? Pam Johnson.

Where is Farnsworth's filling station? Lucille Stone, 15 Oakdale road.

Why are the two Longs—one long and one short? Eddie Phillips.

Who am I? "I want you to meet Mr. Blank, he is the neatest boy he'll come back and break on you."

Sara Smith.

Which of our members puts Gibby to shame? Gray Poole.

Whose thunder did Ideline steal?

Mary McCarty.

Was the supposedly first meeting of the Deltante club held in the old school?

Which of our members proves the old saying, "Watch the child of a minister?" Henrietta McKell.

Who crowded the pig woman for space? Anne Lane Newell.

Who wears pink and blue in such becoming ensembles? Virginia Torrance.

How does Sara Hurt know what time Dick McMullan goes home?

Who is the mother of her son? Jessie White.

Who keeps us posted on the football affairs of the day? Runa Erwin.

What are the following dates famous, November 15 and January 28? Debutante ball and charity ball.

All the above questions were about some member of the club, each answer causing much merriment among the guests.

Refreshments were served in the form of stick candy, chewing gum, fancy cake and candies, ice cream and punch.

Each guest was presented with a box of animal crackers.

Miss Newell was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Alfred Newell, and Miss Ellen Newell.

"So Now Goodbye."

Upon leaving the debs were presented an original poem written on mourning stationery, by Miss Newell.

Which of our girls will cherish together with their sweethearts the home as a fond memory of the happiest year of their young ladyhood. The poem, entitled, "So Now Goodbye," was as follows:

So now it's goodbye to our debutante days.

And also to our debutante nights.

We're more educated in lots of ways.

Have done many things—seen many sights.

We've been through a lot in this season together.

Have known both adverse and favorable weather.

It's hard to believe the winter is past

Big Audience at Erlanger Enjoys 'Beware of Widows'

The laugh festival of the year and one of the funniest shows that has ever been seen in Atlanta is "Beware of Widows," this week's vehicle of Mrs. Sidney Blackmer and his associate players, amazingly well acted at the Erlanger theater Monday night before the largest Monday night crowd of the present engagement.

In many respects the Owen Davis farce comedy proved to be a big success, but aside from Miss Kennedy's role which easily won the most pleasure she has played. It brought some sparkling lines as brilliant as some of Frederick Lonsdale's best. And it brought some of the most amusing situations ever seen in a comedy here.

"Beware of Widows" is unseasonably Madge Kennedy's show. As the clever, resourceful and at times scheming widow she wins the hearts of the audience from the very start with the same ease with which she finally wins her somewhat vacillating lover's role of course played by Sidney Blackmer.

Miss Kennedy uses numerous little tricks and bit parts and they seem to be inexhaustible. As "Joyce Bragdon," the widow in the case, she is a regular "Little Miss Fit It" and the ways she "fixes" things on a house boat, packed with all the good and unhappy houses develops most of the fun of the evening. The plot is rather loosely thrown together but it is worked out as logically as any farce plot need be and provides steady and sustained laughter. It is not a whirlwind comedy by any means, but it is shot full of surprises which continually arise with such rapidity that deep-seated laughter which signifies that the audience thoroughly is enjoying the farce. Miss Kennedy's work is simply so good that audiences of all types will be able to do it justice.

Although Miss Kennedy is the outstanding star, Mr. Blackmer is not particularly overshadowed. He gives a fine demonstration of his versatility by playing a role entirely different from some of the other parts, but plays it with rare astuteness. The grand finale of the farce gives the production a sureness and certainty that rounds out a perfect performance.

Some wonderful work is done by the supporting cast in "Beware of Widows." Frank Sylvester, whose finished work in "The Last of Mrs. Charley's Aunt" was excellent, is

Across the Metropolitan screen this week flickers a feature film of astonishing beauty for Gene Stratton Porter's "The Magic Garden," the sort of cinema to which a man can take his modest aunt. The young fans sat in rapt wonder from the balcony to the pit—and there was no rib nudging or the desire of the act. E. H.

SNAPPY FINISH MARKS GEORGIA BILL THIS WEEK

One of the best pictures seen at the Georgia theater since its opening, "The Yankee Clipper," and a good bill of vaudeville are featured at that theater this week; the bill being placed in the "good" class by the last three acts.

Things start off slowly with the turn of "The Pickfords," who offer a series of acrobatic stunts. Trick furniture brings most of the laughs in this act.

Next come Meehan and Newman, two capable performers with an act that could not have had a worse reception Monday. Meehan is a good dancer, and Miss Newman is not a bad singer at all, but the act doesn't go over for me.

After this comes the bill jumps into the "good" class, of which Manager Eggleston boasts, with the act of Galla-Rini and sister. It is a musical novelty turn in which the youthful Galla-Rini plays every instrument except the proverbial musical saw. He plays them well, too, opening with a couple of accordion numbers with his brother.

Those old reliable J. Frances Dooley and Corinne Sales (not old, by any means) are in fourth place with a riot of laughter. Not a dull moment occurs in the entire act; it's worth the price of admission.

All these acts were not the whole show—not by any means. As pale as Mr. Raymond, Dick Stevenson, leading man, and Larry Keating, playing excellent second fiddles, providing the "feels" for the title role player and sweetly giving what superb and unaffected support so characteristic of the spirit of the Forsyth Players group.

Miss Ellis Baker and Miss Ruth Daviley, the former the center of Stevenson's attention, and the latter the "apple" of Mr. Keating's eye, deserve immense credit for the excellent work they do. The remaining seven acts which those two young ladies wore must have been a treat for both men and women in the audience. And one can't get over how charmingly dainty Miss Betty Lawrence appeared during her brief moments on the stage. Jane Stuart, the bonnie blonde, played with such spirit, force and ability that has endeared her to a wide circle of Atlanta fans.

Gus Forbes, playing a lighter role than usual this week, and Jay Mulroney in the role of Sir Francis Chesney, suitor of Jane Stuart, were the equals in the love of art, both played in jam-up style. Frank McDonald, as the bewhiskered butler and general flunkie, furnished his share of laughs with quaint humor and even more humorous antics.

Everything that is funny is done by Mr. Raymond this week, and there aren't many pauses or moments in the show when something isn't being done or said that isn't collective laughing box.

The remainder of the week, might show beginning at 8:20 o'clock, and matines on Tuesday, Thursdays and Saturdays, at 2:30 o'clock. The reduced summer prices are still in effect.

Next week, the Georgia will be given over to the "Gatsby" and "The Moon of a Gardener," was read by Mrs. Hall.

In the interim see "Charley's Aunt" and get a good laugh.

L. O. MOSELEY.

A social affair of Saturday was the bridge-luncheon given by the Beta Sigma Club in the green room of the Henry Grady hotel. The table was beautifully decorated in ferns and cut flowers.

The members present were Misses Louise File, Kathleen Mitchell, Annie Berry, Frances Grant, Billie Clark, Annie Bell Smith, Ruth Whitley, Lela Thompson, Lucy Thompson, Annie Ruth Tully, Mrs. William Williamson, Mrs. John C. Anderson, Mrs. E. B. Anderson, Mrs. Charles E. Strange, Mrs. J. H. Harris and Mrs. W. A. Strange. The hostesses for this occasion were Misses Billie Clark and Annie Berry.

hilarious waves at the Rialto theater where his latest Paramount comedy, "Wedding Bills," opened Monday.

This popular wag whose ability to provoke whole-hearted laughter is axiomatic in "Wedding Bills" offers what is purported to be his best comedy to date.

The plot of "Wedding Bills" was manufactured strictly for laughing purposes. Griffith, past master in the art of clowning makes every move on the screen count, and even his most casual action is in reality clever pantomime. He is the victim of a series of harassments by a beat man, who owns more scrub pins than anybody else in town. Weddings are no more unusual with him than his meals, nor half as thrilling. He finally swears off weddngs entirely, intending to devote himself exclusively to the cultivation of bachelorhood. He temporarily abandons his resolutions and agrees to be best man for his best friend (Hallam Cooley) on the latter's marriage.

But besides the wedding there is also a blonde who takes up some of Griffith's attention; she is upset by the arrival of a proposed marriage, and an expensive necklace is required to soothe her feelings, and at the same time prevent her from breaking up the romance. Ray gets the necklace off, gives it to her, sets her back, the necklace disappears entirely, and the panic is on.

The following day the blonde has been taken up by the adventures of the daughter of an insurance representative, whose business has gone from bad to worse.

George Lee Hamrick at the organ offers an unusually pleasing number this week entitled "A Recital Miracle." A Felix The Cat comedy film follows, the designs being by Pauline, and the music by E. L.

MIKE AMES HIT OF GOOD BILL AT LOEW'S GRAND

Surprisingly good from the first note to the last, the new bill of vaudeville which opened Monday at Loew's Grand theater and at least two of the acts are well deserving of the title of headliners in the best vaudeville theaters in the country. Lionel "Mike Ames, female impersonator de luxe, is one of the star attractions. The old and new a big company of comedians and dancers is the other headliner.

"Mike" Ames is an athletic college boy who gives his impersonations a touch which is different. He makes no effort to fool the crowd but steps from character to character with a riotous gusto that finds many favor.

A Fox News hot from Churchill is a vivid re-enactment of the derby classic when Whiskery's savage thrust down the home stretch overruled Dicks and finally Oswald, at the wire. Another event, always new to the stamp and precision of West Pointers on parade.

(W. S. P.)

TRUDY IN PERSON GETS BIG HAND ON HOWARD BILL

"Georgette Ederle in Person" is the factor which drew packed houses to the Howard theater Monday night. Not that "Trudy" is the whole affair; for there's a galaxy of other talent—Wally and his orchestra, singing dancers, and "The Love Thrill."

Miss Ederle demonstrates in a glass tank the stage several strokes, in addition to those which she used in her famous English channel swim.

She thoroughly captured her Monday night audience for her exhibition. Miss Ederle is assisted by Helen Wright and June Epperson, two stars in their own right.

The following day the blonde has been made: Mrs. L. H. Deihl, Mrs. C. G. Blount, Mrs. D. A. Farrell, Mrs. M. C. Carroll, Miss Frances Kenny, Mrs. W. G. Stephens, Mrs. E. F. Donehoo, Mrs. Freda White, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Ruth Tully, Mrs. William Williamson, Mrs. John C. Anderson, Mrs. E. B. Anderson, Mrs. Charles E. Strange, Mrs. J. H. Harris and Mrs. W. A. Strange. The hostesses for this occasion were Misses Billie Clark and Annie Berry.

MIKE AMES HIT OF GOOD BILL AT LOEW'S GRAND

Surprisingly good from the first note to the last, the new bill of vaudeville which opened Monday at Loew's Grand theater and at least two of the acts are well deserving of the title of headliners in the best vaudeville theaters in the country. Lionel "Mike Ames, female impersonator de luxe, is one of the star attractions. The old and new a big company of comedians and dancers is the other headliner.

"Mike" Ames is an athletic college boy who gives his impersonations a touch which is different. He makes no effort to fool the crowd but steps from character to character with a riotous gusto that finds many favor.

A Fox News hot from Churchill is a vivid re-enactment of the derby classic when Whiskery's savage thrust down the home stretch overruled Dicks and finally Oswald, at the wire. Another event, always new to the stamp and precision of West Pointers on parade.

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

Mortal Fear.

Piers' guardian angel at that moment presented him with a vision of Cristina laying out the hors d'oeuvres on the round stone table and giving him one melting, rather piteous look from her tragic eyes. He had thought at the time that it was because she rather admired him for a fine figure of a man, as he undoubtedly was, according to her standards. Now he wondered if she hadn't thrown that glance out of mutual sympathy.

Piers had been of a mind to follow Sophy to her room and pursue his line of talk on her disgraceful behavior. He might even have hurt her. Once he had taken her by the shoulders and given her a good shaking, and he remembered how the sight of her yellow head wagging helplessly and frightened had filled him with a horrid sense of power. His fingers itched, now, to repeat that salutary punishment. For days afterwards Sophy had been cowed, but of course it was inevitable that after the effect had worn off she should try to get out of hand again. But, no—she must go warily. The thing was to catch her, let her believe that this was only a jealous flare-up on his part; even pretend that he was sorry.

So in the end he did follow her to her room and dismissed her maid with a glance and a gesture.

That feeling of terror, of being absolutely in the mercy of a man driven mad by love for her, seized upon Sophy again and made of her the craven creature whose sole defense was trickery. She knew she could entice him easily enough into an affectionate mood no matter how greatly he distrusted her, and she could keep him affectionate and even passionately adoring just as long as she wished. She could get him to do anything she wanted him to, except give up his creature comforts. All this trouble that threatened could be avoided if only . . .

She could say that she was already bored with the villa and the prospect of a whole winter spent in this quiet little place. He would take her anywhere she asked, so long as she made it plain enough that she wanted for the most part only to be alone with him. The whole of the super-civilized world was hers to choose from, and thus avoid any possibility of a crash.

This tragedy portending—was it indeed, inevitable?

And yet, if only Piers could be counted upon to take it decently, which he certainly couldn't. How simple and truly decent, if all the facts were known, for her and Alan to go away together and for Piers to do the kind thing, divorce her quietly, so that in time Alan and she might reappear again and take up a normal course of life.

And so, as he came into her room and dismissed Agnes, she turned all those things over so much in her mind as in her feelings; reviewed them hastily, and because she was mortally afraid of him and the cruel clutch of his hands on her shoulders and of how he might shake her until her fragile neck snapped, she had a desperate desire to placate him. Just a little acting would fool Piers.

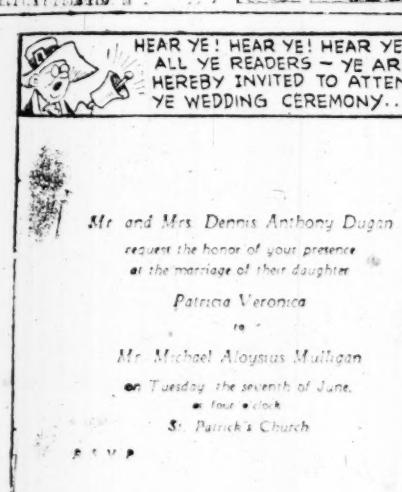

But she couldn't do it. She couldn't even force herself to try to do it. Her arms hung lifeless, when all that was necessary was to lift them and draw him down to kiss her. Not if he killed her—no, she couldn't do it. Let him kill her and get it over with. They wouldn't hang him not in Italy, but it wouldn't be very pleasant for him, either, spending the rest of his days languishing in solitary confinement and deprived of all the things he was so dependent upon for his comfort. She almost wished he would kill her.

Poor little coward, a bundle of shrinking flesh that dreaded those

Seven Records Smashed in State Track Meet

Georgia Tech Wins Annual Cinder Battle

Hamm Cracks Broad Jump Record While Jacket Stars Stage Excellent Exhibition at Emory.

BY HOWARD EATON.

AMM, star track athlete, led Georgia Tech's cinder path artists to first honors in the eighth annual track and field meet in which seven state records were smashed at Emory university Monday afternoon. Tech amassed a total of 87 points, Georgia was second with 40, Emory third with 34½ and Oglethorpe 4.

Coach Barron's team scored in every event, coping 10 first places, placing second in six events, five third places, one tied for third place and finished fourth in seven events.

Seven records fell during the meet, which was the most successful ever held by track officials. Hamm started the records toppling when he put the 16 inches shot 50 feet and 4½ inch, bettering the old mark by more than two feet. After Hamm set the pace for the others, records began to fall in every direction.

Kenner, of Georgia, topped the pole vault record by one inch with a leap of 11 feet, 9 inches. In the shot put both Nixon of Tech and Paulk of Emory bettered the old record of 41 feet 10 inches. The other records to fall were in the running events. Wright, of Tech, stepped the mile in 4:38.2, cutting six tenths of a second off the old record in the 400-yard dash. Crockett, of Emory, equaled the record in the half-mile in 2:14.6.

Hamm was a bit off and only leaped 22 feet and 11 inches when bettered the previous record except on foot. Dick Fickett, of Tech, lowered his own 2-mile record from 10:23 to 10:16, which is quite a comedown. Dick was followed by Beeton, of Georgia, who finished unusually strong but was unable to overcome the lead established by Fickett earlier in the race. The last record to fall during the afternoon's programme was the relay event won by Tech in 3:32, exactly two seconds better than Tech's own record of 3:34.

Ed Hamm was high scorer of the day with 10 points to his credit. Kenner, of Georgia, was a close second with 9½ points. McCrary, of Georgia, Tech, and Nixon, of Georgia, Tech, tied for third. Nixon, of Tech, was tied for fourth place; Logan, of Emory, was fourth with six and one-half points; Perkins, fifth with six points.

SUMMARIES:

High Hurdles: Hamm (Tech) first, Whiteaker (Brewer) second, Tex (Tech) third, Brewer (Tech) fourth. Time, 17 1/2. 100 Yard Dash: Hamm (Tech) first, McCrary (Tech) second, Nixon (Tech) third, Schuyler (Tech) fourth. Time, 10 1/2. Pole Vault: Kenner (Georgia) first, Nixon (Tech) second, Tex (Tech) third, Nixon (Tech) and Logan (Emory) tied for third. Height, 11 feet, 9 inches. (Records.) Shot Put: Nixon (Tech) first, Nixon (Tech) second, Paulk (Emory) third, Nixon (Tech) fourth. Distance, 44 feet, 4 inches. One Mile: Wright (Tech) first, Brewer (Tech) second, Nixon (Georgia) third, David (Georgia) fourth. Time, 17 1/2. 200 Yard Dash: Clark (Tech) first, Rutherford (Georgia) second, Nixon (Tech) third, Rutherford (Georgia) fourth. Distance, 22 feet, 5 inches. 400 Yard Dash: Bennett (Georgia) first, Nixon (Tech) second, Calamus (Tech) third.

Woman Golf Champ Struck By Lightning

Newcastle, County Down, Ireland, May 16.—(AP)—A stormy day of golf, during which Miss Cecil Leitch, famous English champion, was struck by lightning and many players were unnerved by the electrical flashes and heavy rolling thunder, saw the elimination today of all the American contenders from the British ladies' open championship, with the exception of Miss Virginia Wilson of Chicago.

The storm was particularly severe during the round between Miss Enid Wilson, of Nottinghamshire, and Miss Mary Wilson, of Wiltshire, N. H., which Miss Wilson won by 6 and 4.

On another part of the course Miss Leitch, the present open champion, who is not defending her title, was watching the matches when, at the 16th green, an umbrella in her left hand was hit by lightning. The hand and the left arm were stunned and became intensely painful.

The championship matches started this morning over the sea-girt course of the Royal County Down club at the foot of the Mourne mountains, and the English girls beat their way into the third round, and with two French girls, Mlle. De La Chaume and Nanette Leblanc, remains a formidable foreign challenger for the British title, which never has gone abroad.

Miss Virginia Wilson, of Wentworth, Ontario, Canada, Mrs. John Frazer, Sunningdale, 4 and 2.

Mrs. Simon Thorne, of La Chaume, France, defeated Mrs. E. Garon, Thornton Park, 2 and 1.

Mrs. G. M. Lewis, of Los Angeles, withdrew, giving Miss Molly Gourley, England, a walk-over.

Miss A. Lee Beauchene, Rockaway Hunting club, was defeated by Miss Bertha Braithwaite, Melbourne, Australia, 3 and 2.

Mrs. W. L. R. Spaulding, Buffalo Country Club, was defeated by Mrs. Hugo Pinner, England, 5 and 3.

After defeating Miss Arbutin in the first round, Miss Brooks was beaten by 6 and 4 by a serious young school girl golfer, Miss Endi Wilson. Miss Wilson's victory was largely due to a runaway start.

Bates (Emory) fourth, Time, 32 seconds. (Record.) 200 Yard Hurdles — Stockman (Emory) first, Brewer (Tech) second, Brewer (Tech) third, Whitfield (Emory) fourth. Time, 27 1/2. Half-Mile: Crowe (Emory) first, Bill (Georgia) second, Bell (Tech) third, Hawkins (Emory) fourth. Time, 10:11.6. (Record.)

High Jump: Perkins (Tech) first, Logan (Emory) and Kenner (Georgia) tied for second, Turner (Georgia) third, Height, 2 feet, 10 inches.

One-Mile Relay: Tech first (Hamm, Bell and Kunkel), Georgia third and Emory third. Time, 3:32. (New record.)

FROM COFFEE AND BEANS TO MILLIONAIRES' FEAST

An Accomplishment of Tex Rickard—of Which He Is Proud

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, May 16.—It is a far cry from the shoddy gambling shacks of Rawhide, Nevada, a quarter century ago to the red plush, the be-spangled hunkies and the gold plate in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Commodore.

In those former days, Tex Rickard, blue-eyed boss gambler from Missouri, sat down in his shirt sleeves to coffee and beans with those who came from far and near seeking Nevada's gold.

Now less than 200 millionaires including bank presidents, United States senators, governors, mayors and prominent sportsmen, come to dinner to pay tribute to Rickard's genius as promoter.

The testimonial dinner to Rickard was a recognition of his contribution to sports. Tex has made it possible for thousands to see boxing, hockey and other sporting attractions. Incidentally, he has made himself a millionaire and has made a barrel of money for a number of them who were present at the dinner.

Whether it was appreciation for the former or admiration for the latter, contribution, the millionaires of whose acquaintance Tex is naively proud, toured round for five round numbers for the feast. Five of them, however, were the same George Lewis Rickard, the gambler of gold fields and the "Tax" of 1925. A certain unspoiled naïfete is Rickard's principal charm.

Tex sat and swelled his chest until his starched bosom shirt nearly popped with pride, but he was as artless and pleased over his lesser successes as over his old days.

Rickard knows what golf is now, and walks into millionaires' offices without knocking, but the essentially

ROBINS DEFEAT PILOTS.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 16.—Brooklyn soundly thrashed pitchers hard and defeated Pittsburgh today, 9 to 5. Eddie Yerke, making his first start of the season in the first game, was perfect.

Jesse Petty, Dodger spitout ace, yielded the first run to the Pilots, but gradually won him there for some time to come.

The former gobbler in Uncle Sam's navy finished heavy work today for the 3-5 round soap in the Yankee stadium that will furnish a finalist in Tex Rickard's series to determine Gene Tunney's challenger. A month of strenuous training in New York and Brooklyn has put Shriver in perfect condition—and his crystallized confidence of victory in him until it almost a part of his workouts.

"There is only room enough in Boston for one of us," Shriver said after he finished 10 rounds of bag-punching, sandlot boxing and rope skipping.

"I think you will see me."

The big Bostonian, conqueror of Harry Wills and Mike McGuire in his last major engagements, weighed 133 1/2 today.

Shriver's final workouts have been hampered by a split in his eye, and several operations will be undergone before he can be fit again.

COTTON IS MODERATELY ACTIVE.

New Orleans, May 16.—(P)—Cotton was only moderately active today and although the price trend was reactionary in the early trading the market rallied moderately later. The weather appeared to be the dominating influence and at the start the market was six to seven points down despite better Liverpool cables. The decline was attributed to the fact that the weather had been favorable over the past week.

Near mid-session cotton rallied 18 to 19 points above the lows on the forecast for showers in the western belt, where it is believed, moisture would be harmful, and the unfavorable cool weather over the eastern belt. During the afternoon the market was quiet and prices eased off a point or two from the low.

The opening losses were increased during the first hour July trading down to 15.51, October 15.71 and December 15.87. Near mid-session cotton due to the rainy forecast carried all month to the high points of the day, with July at 15.60, October 15.89, 9 points above the previous close.

In the late trading the market developed little change and prices eased off a point or two from the top, closing near the day's high points.

Exports for the day totaled 38,102 bales.

Vice President Ayers of Cleveland Trust Co. Says Prosperity Is "With Us for Some Time," But Advises Discrimination in Business.

New York, May 16.—Optimism stock marketwise was checked in trading by unexpected news indicating a year's rate of 1.2 percent for call money, the breaking of a long stretch of levers along the Mississippi, resumed automobile price cutting, a further decline in the average selling price of finished steel products to a lower level since 1915 with the exception of 1925, and a decline in the average commodity price, increasing realization of the seriousness of existing conditions in the oil industry. Despite this accumulation of news there was no selling pressure felt on all of prices despite a period of extreme dullness lasting a couple of hours the market became more active with prices advancing.

Even money brokers were surprised by today's high renewal rate of 1.2 percent. It was pointed out that call money is held to meet either the dominating influence in the stock market or from the conforming or from the part movements.

Fruit, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Woolworth all recorded substantial recessions. DuPont failed to respond to the declaration of an extra dividend of $1.50, closing 33-4 points lower at 228.24.

Profit-taking Urged.

While there is still a wide divergence of opinion regarding the future trend of the market, much of today's selling presumably was inspired by commission house advices urging profit-taking and a restriction of commitments. Bear traders continued to search all weak spots, but they were without much success.

A few speculators gave a creditable performance on the upside. Federal Mining and Smelting common soared nearly 27 points to a new high record of 148 on rather vague gossip concerning a coming favorable judicial decision in a pending dispute.

Marking up the renewal rate on call money to 4.42 per cent, which figure was maintained all day, coincident with the calling of a new high of over $15,000 in loans had a dampening effect on bullish enthusiasm contrary to the general strength developed in such stocks as Standard Oil, General Electric, American Gas, Case, Threshing, Coca-Cola, Commercial Solvents, B. F. Goodrich, General Asphalt, General Signal, R. H. Macy, Pullman, United Baldwin dropped from an early high of 204 to 198, closing slightly above 198 to 199, with a net loss of 10 points.

Baldwin stocks yielded with the same strength developed in such issues as New York Central, Reading and Western Maryland common and second preferred.

Public utilities likewise lost ground, losses of 1 to 3 points being sustained by Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric, United Gas and Improvement and one or two others.

Other soft spots included Yellow Taxi, Tubize Silk, American Rolling Mills, Celanese of America, Glen Alden Coal and Deer & Co., the last named dropping 9 points.

Time money and commercial paper rates were inclined to be heavy.

Railroad stocks yielded with the same strength developed in such issues as New York Central, Reading and Western Maryland common and second preferred.

Goodwill, however, was probably the best buy of the day.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

DRAKE NOW POINTED HIS VESSEL WEST AND NORTH AND SAILED STEADILY FOR MANY DAYS. ON THE THIRD OF JUNE, 1579, HE CALCULATED HIS POSITION AS BEING IN ABOUT FORTY-TWO OR FORTY-THREE DEGREES NORTH LATITUDE. ACTUALLY HE WAS OFF THE COAST OF THE PRESENT STATE OF OREGON. THERE THE EXPEDITION ENCOUNTERED INTENSE COLD, WITH SNOW AND VIOLENT WINDS. THIS WAS VERY EXTRAORDINARY FOR THIS LATITUDE AND SEASON OF THE YEAR. NOTHING LIKE IT HAS EVER BEEN RECORDED SINCE. THE ROPES AND RIGGING OF THE SHIP WERE COATED WITH ICE, AND THE MEN NUMBED WITH THE EXTREME COLD. ALL HOPE OF DISCOVERING THE FABLED NORTHWEST PASSAGE WAS GIVEN UP. THEY ANCHORED AT THE MOUTH OF THE RIVER CHETKO, NEAR CAPE FERALLO, ON THE SOUTHERN COAST OF OREGON.

Sir Francis Drake

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING,
NOTED HISTORIAN

SOON AFTERWARDS THEY WERE AGAIN FORCED TO PUT TO SEA BY THE VIOLENCE OF THE SQUALLS. THEY WERE DRIVEN SOUTHWARD ALONG THE COAST FOR SOME TWO WEEKS IN THE SAME COLD AND HEAVY WEATHER. ON THE SEVENTEENTH OF JUNE, 1579, THEY CAME TO AN ATTRACTIVE HARBOR AND ANCHORED THERE. FROM RECORDS THIS HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED AS A SPOT A LITTLE NORTH OF WHAT IS NOW SAN FRANCISCO BAY, AND TO THIS DAY IT BEARS THE NAME "SIR FRANCIS DRAKE'S HARBOR." SO IT WOULD SEEM THAT DRAKE WAS THE FIRST EUROPEAN TO SEE THE COAST OF OREGON, AND THE FIRST TO REACH UPPER CALIFORNIA, SOON AFTER THE SHIP CAME TO ANCHOR. A CANOE WITH A SINGLE OCCUPANT APPROACHED THE SHIP. AN INDIAN, ALMOST NAKED, ROSE IN THE CANOE AND HARBANUED DRAKE'S COMPANY WITH GESTURES AND BOWINGS AND DISPLAYING HOMAGE WHICH THEY DID NOT UNDERSTAND. THEY OFFERED HIM PRESENTS WHICH HE DECLINED. HIS ORATION FINISHED, HE PADDLED HIS CANOE TO THE SHORE LEAVING THE ENGLISHMEN MYSTIFIED.

High Lights in the Cotton Market

BY THEO. H. PRICE.
Editor, Commerce and Finance, New York.

New York, May 16.—A distinct loaf of contracts that has been so much talked about is somewhat relieved and the market is getting back into something like its stride in pre-war times when the fluctuation of 20 or 30 points in a day or 3 or 4 cents in a year was rarely exceeded.

In the circumstances it seems reasonable to expect a comparatively active cotton market during the summer upon which we shall shortly enter. The contracts that spinners and manufacturers have been holding seem to be neglectful of cotton. The broadening alluded to is evident in the ease with which larger orders can now be executed without seriously affecting the price level, as well as by the reduction in the range of fluctuations from day to day. The scarcity of cotton from cotton history which suggest that in the Mississippi valley a generous yield has often followed a flood. Briefly, those citations which prove that the floods of 1849, 1857, 1864, 1878, 1893, 1904 and 1912, in each of these years a bumper crop was raised, and in none of them does the high water appear to have worked any radical curtailment in the production of the Mississippi valley.

These generalizations seem to compare all the factors of supply and demand, but this year will be the exception that proves the rule. It is, however, worth observing that George D. Smith, a government expert who was in charge of the Tallulah laboratory during the 1912 flood, is quoted in the New Orleans Picayune as reporting an "unprecedented" yield of 1,000,000 bales of cotton in the flooded area.

But this is speculative. Mean while the export movement continues. More than 10,000,000 bales of American cotton have already been shipped abroad. The American cotton mills seem to be growing busier day by day, though the market is still not up to what it was before the war.

There has never been a cotton season without its crop scare, major or minor, and this year seems destined to be one in which a foundation for a succession of major scares has been firmly laid. A recognition of this fact seems general, and it will probably provide a buying power that will be sufficient to take care of all offerings until the new crop is ready for sale and the statistical probabilities can be more precisely gauged.
